OFFICERS MUST TELL OF STAND IN ULSTER TROUBLE OR RESIGN

Dispatch From London War Office Gives Army Men 12 Hours to Decide or Resign Commands

THOUSANDS OF REGULAR TROOPS ARE MOBILIZED

King George Taking an Active Part in Negotiations, Holding Conference With Principal Military Leaders

TWO COMPANIES IN MUTINY, IS REPORT.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 21.—A mutiny of two companies of the Dorsetshire regiments stationed in Belfast, is reported by the Pall Mall Gazette.

The Pall Mall Gazette's message says:

"When the men of the battalion of the Dorsetshire regiment were paraded in Belfast, today and notified that they were being transferred elsewhere they threw down their arms. A sergeant stepped forward saluted the officers and said:

"'We will have no home rule here.'

"This is thought in home quarters to be an exaggerated version of the reports of unrest among the regular troops in Ulster.

(By Associated Press.)

ENNISKILLEN, Ireland, March 21.—All the army officers here received a communication from the war office today calling on them to make a definite statement as to their views, as to whether they were prepared to retain their commands in the event of hostilities in Ulster. If not, they were told, they must resign forthwith.

Similar notices are said to have been received by all officers with the troops in the north of Ireland.

Disaffection Among Officers of Army

LONDON, March 21.—The outstanding feature of the news from Ireland today was the disaffection among the officers of the regular army under orders to proceed to Ulster with their regiments.

The actual number of resignations among them still was problematical, but that it was considerable, was evident from the earnest early morning consultations of cabinet ministers regarding the means of counteracting the movement.

The actual fact of this disaffection in the army officers with military authority since the army is already seriously short of commissioned officers.

Threats of a crisis in the army, if a large number of regular troops are undertaken against Ulster, had long been current and in some quarters it is believed that the sudden withdrawal of a limited number of troops was ordered so that the military authorities might gather out those who were widespread the threatened disaffection was.

Immediately after Colonel Seely, the secretary of state for war, had been in audience with King George at Buckingham palace this morning, Colonel Seely summoned a meeting of the army council, which took the necessary steps to replace officers who had resigned.

AMMUNITION STORED.

Meanwhile General Sir Arthur Paget continues to dispose his troops who have orders to safeguard government property and to maintain law and order.

A detachment of 150 men of the regular army arrived this morning at Carrickfergus near Belfast to reinforce the garrison. Large quantities of arms and ammunition are stored there.

In order to avoid possible trouble the police in Ireland have been told not to enforce the gun license in cases where members of the "Ulster Volunteers" are found with rifles in camp or elsewhere. The act empowers the authorities to seize all unlicensed firearms.

The greatest danger is believed to lie in the possibility of clashes between Orange and Nationalist workmen which might start a general conflict.

King George is keeping in close touch with the situation. He summoned the secretary of state for war to Buckingham palace early this morning and also sent one of his private secretaries to the premier's residence in Downing street to secure the latest official information.

A mutiny of two companies of the Dorsetshire regiments stationed in Belfast, is reported by the Pall Mall Gazette.

Premier Asquith and Andrew Bonar Law, the official leader of the opposition in the house of commons, whenever they have come into contact have given embodied displays of partisanship.

LOCAL OPTION.

It was thought in many quarters today that if the government would consent to give the province of Ulster perpetual local option on the question of home rule, instead of compelling them to come under the Dublin parliament at the end of six years, a way out of the present difficulty would be open.

The Nationalists always have contended that the Ulster men would be glad to join the home rule scheme, once it had been demonstrated that their fears of unfair treatment were unfounded.

King George is taking an active part in the negotiations. He is not confining his conferences to members of the cabinet, but has been in communication with Arthur J. Balfour and gave an audience to Field Marshal Lord Roberts, after he had seen the secretary of state for war. Lord Roberts subsequently conferred at length with Colonel Seely and the war office executive

Georgia Fruit Crop Not Hurt by Cold, Say Fruit Officials

Warning Issued to Farmers to Look Out for Another Cold Spell

The good news that Georgia's fruit crop was not harmed by the cold and light frost of Friday night, was given out at the Georgia Fruit Exchange in Atlanta Saturday morning.

At the same time there is a warning to farmers conveyed in the fruit exchange report, for with a forecast of rain for Saturday night, there is a chance that the fruit will be imperiled if it clears off very cold.

"We are not out of the woods yet," said Forecaster C. F. Von Herrmann. "It is likely to turn out very cold after the rain and that will mean a possible freeze. Farmers had best do all they can to protect their orchards."

Mr. Von Herrmann reluctantly admitted that it really snowed Saturday morning. The weather being a sort of pet with him, he hates to see it ruffled untimely.

"It was just a few flakes," he said. "It melted as soon as it hit the streets. No danger of there sing a blizzard."

H. D. Marks, secretary and treasurer of the fruit exchange, said this morning that reports from north Georgia all agree that the fruit was not hurt by the frost.

The cold snap did not extend to south Georgia and the peach belt will not suffer any harm.

"If rain should come and freeze on the buds it would do a lot of injury," said Mr. Marks. "But so long as the weather keeps cloudy with this wind blowing there will be no danger."

The forecast given out at the weather bureau Saturday morning was for unsettled weather tonight and Sunday, with a prospect of rain.

The lowest was 32 and 3-10 degrees Friday night. The weather bureau reported that Friday night's frost was a very light one.

Recognized at Last! Barbers' Tongues Now Used by Advertisers

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 21.—A novel advertising campaign was begun here today by the West Side Kiwanis Boosting club, a religious organization.

Talkative barbers are the new advertising medium.

Officers of the club yesterday made arrangements with numerous West Side barbers to vary their conversations on the weather, safety razors, etc., with discussions of the club campaign.

This is a sample of advertising which accompany shaves and hair cuts:

"Do you attend the services of the West Side Sunday Evening club, sir? They are held in the Third Presbyterian church. You will hear singing and speaking of a sort that will make you enthusiastic. Rev. Hugh Jamesdame, of Hull House, will be the speaker at the next meeting."

Each week one of the speakers for the next Sunday will be sent to the barbers who will alter their announcements accordingly.

Redfield Goes Snooping About Lighthouse and Is "Called" by Keeper

(By Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—Stop that man from going up those steps," shouted John Peterson, assistant light keeper at the Los Angeles harbor light house yesterday as a man started up the stairs to the light tower.

Then a bystander explained that the man in question was William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce and Peterson's highest superior officer.

Peterson was preparing to apologize for his abrupt order when the secretary, who was inspecting the light house as a matter of official routine, explained he considered the matter a good joke.

Second Attack of Heart Trouble Proves Fatal to Well-Known Citizen

Mr. J. A. Chambers, of East Point, a brother of Deputy Sheriff J. W. Chambers and an uncle of Aldine Chambers, the Atlanta attorney, died suddenly of heart failure Friday night at his home. He suffered a slight attack of heart trouble about a week ago, and this later seizure was not regarded as serious. Before the physician could arrive, however, he was dead.

Permission to Bury Eubanks by His Wife Denied His Friends

Father of Slain Woman Demands That Separate Funerals Be Held

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DURDENVILLE, Ga., March 21.—Requests of friends of J. A. Eubanks, who committed suicide yesterday after killing his wife and two baby girls at their home near Oakpark, this county, that his body be buried by the side of his wife and children, this morning were denied by Madison Neale, father of the slain woman.

Friends of Eubanks had made preparations to conduct his funeral with those of other members of the family at Antioch church, near here, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The firm refusal of Mr. Neale to consent to this caused them to change their plans and the funeral of Eubanks is to be held at Oakgrove church, near Stillmore, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Eubanks killed his wife with an axe and stabbed his two children to death early yesterday. After firing his home and several farm houses he committed suicide.

His body was left on the warehouse platform where he died until late yesterday afternoon, when a coroner's inquest was held. Eubanks leaves two brothers and two sisters in this county.

His wife was formerly Miss Mattie Neale. They had been married for five years.

PLAN EFFORTS TO UNITE WARRING BALKAN STATES

Member of Carnegie Committee Makes Announcement at New York Meeting

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Agencies which caused sending of the Carnegie commission to investigate conditions in the Balkans last summer now are planning definite action to bridge the chasm between the warring Balkan states, Prof. Samuel Dutton, member of that committee, announced last night at the Brick Presbyterian church. The meeting called in behalf of refugees and victims of the Balkan crisis and attended largely by Bulgarians and Greeks, developed into a demonstration of the declared necessity of co-operation to prevent absorption of their countries by the powers of Europe.

Andrew S. Teanoff, a Bulgarian editor revisiting the United States after an interval of forty-three years, advised to the peril he declared was overshadowing the numerous petty principalities in southeastern Europe, and the necessity of American agencies and influence to counteract the inaugurating new era of peace and confederacy on a fair basis.

Dr. George Washburn, ex-president of Robert college at Constantinople; Benjamin C. Marsh, whose father, a missionary, yielded his life in caring for the victims of the war, and Princess Ritza Furnadjeva, of Sofia, were the other speakers.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF GORDON COUNTY FARMER

Sister Finds Sid Chapman Shot to Death—No Clue as to Slayer

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CALHOUN, Ga., March 21.—A mysterious murder occurred five miles from here this morning, when Sid Chapman, a young farmer, was shot and killed while in the yard of his sister's home. The tragedy occurred on Thomas Rogers' farm, the home of Mrs. Rogers being a widow who resides there with her two daughters. It is said that Chapman was not armed, and therefore could not have committed suicide.

Mrs. Rogers and her daughters claim to have known nothing of the killing until they found Chapman's body on the ground at daybreak. Charles Shaw, the nearest neighbor, states that he heard the report of a shotgun from Chapman's home at 4 minutes home at 4 o'clock this morning.

Sid Chapman was twenty-five years old. He was married and had children and was making his home with his sister, Mrs. Rogers, father, M. V. Chapman lives at Morganville, and he has several brothers in this neighborhood.

PRISONERS IN DYNAMITE CASE REFUSED FREEDOM

Applications to Have Three Labor Men Released on Bonds, Refused

(By Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21.—Applications of three of the labor men convicted at Indianapolis in 1912 on charges of transporting explosives illegally, asking their release from the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, were denied last night by Judge John C. Pollock in the federal court at Kansas City, Kan. Philip Cooley, of Utah; E. E. Muney, of Buffalo, and John Webb, of Cleveland, who asked release, were not given their liberty on bond pending appeal of the convicted men awaiting final disposition of their cases in the United States courts.

Release for the three was asked for on the ground that they were convicted in Indiana, while none was in that state at the time of the crime. Judge Pollock held this not sufficient grounds for taking up the matter.

COLLEGE OF BISHOPS LOSES ITS FIGHT TO CONTROL VANDERBILT

Tennessee Supreme Court Decides in Favor of University Board of Trust and Holds It Self-Perpetuating

CARNEGIE'S $1,000,000 GIFT CAN NOW BE ACCEPTED

Court Announces That Bishops' Veto of Acceptance by the Board of Trust Is Without Effect

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—The Tennessee supreme court decided the case involving the control of Vanderbilt university in favor of the university board of trust and against the college of bishops of the Southern Methodist church. The court held the board of trust to be a self-perpetuating body.

The court, however, holds that the board of trust's selections are subject to confirmation by the general conference or the church's board of education, but sit until rejected. The Asheville general conference's selections for the board of trust are denied their seats, the trustees elected by the board of trust in June, 1910, namely, Claude Waller and Robert F. Jackson, of Nashville, and J. A. Robins, of McKenzie, Tenn., are pending rejection.

The court held that "Commodore" Cornelius Vanderbilt and not the Southern Methodist church was the founder and original patron of Vanderbilt university.

Under the decision the college of bishops' veto of the acceptance by the board of trust of Andrew Carnegie's $1,000,000 gift to the medical department is without effect.

SURVIVOR OF PICKETT'S CHARGE IS NEAR DEATH

"Uncle Tom" Thompson, City Hall Policeman, Has Stroke of Apoplexy

"Uncle Tom" Thompson, survivor of Pickett's charge and Confederate soldier of Atlanta force nearly forty years, suffered a stroke of apoplexy in city hall late Friday afternoon and was taken to the residence of his nephew, Olind Hurst, 160 South avenue, in an almost dying condition, he is not expected to live.

Mr. Thompson walked a beat in Atlanta until he was stricken. He had a beard, outdoor duty, and then was assigned to indoor duty and around city hall, where he has been for two or three years. His police record is the record of a faithful, conscientious and brave officer—such a record as one would expect of a man who went through the charge of the Light Brigade and later commanded a regiment.

Mr. Thompson's story of Pickett's charge was told in the magazine supplement of The Journal some months ago. In homely, vivid language, he told how he urged the colonels to move across the field and up the long hill bristling with musket and cannon how he cheered the solid lines of them fell before the sheet of lead; how four ranks closed and they moved on and up and over the breastworks, and then back across a wallowing field of dead and wounded men.

"How does a man feel in battle?" said "Uncle Tom," in answer to his interviewer's question. "Why, no man has ever told how he felt in battle. If he did he made it up out of his imagination. A battle is battle, and Pickett's charge was worse than hell."

TELAMON SMITH CUYLER ATTACKS WIFE'S DIVORCE

Mrs. Cuyler Writes From Frisco That He Seeks to Have It Annulled

Telamon Smith Cuyler and his attorney, James W. Austin, both of Atlanta, are in San Francisco, seeking to have Mrs. Grace Barton Cuyler's recently granted divorce from her husband annulled, according to letters received in Atlanta from Mrs. Cuyler.

In her letters to friends here she says Cuyler and his lawyer declare the divorce was not legal because Mrs. Cuyler had not been in San Francisco long enough to establish a legal residence status when she entered suit.

Cuyler has made no effort to see his children, awarded to Mrs. Cuyler by the courts, she writes. She also says she has not completed a contemplating trip to the Orient until the matter is definitely settled.

Mr. Cuyler recently entered suit for $500,000 against Mrs. Cuyler's mother, Mrs. John Barton, in New York City, it is asserted, alienating the defendant his wife's affections. At the same time Mrs. Barton has brought suit against her son-in-law for $50,000 claiming he has borrowed this amount from her at various times and has never paid it back.

The latter suit is understood to be pending in San Francisco.

FORMER SENATOR CLARK IS GRAZED BY DEATH

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Ex-Senator William A. Clark, of Montana, was one of a crowd of pedestrians that narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when a derrick and 14-ton girder fell at the new building of the Equitable Life Assurance society, at 4 Broadway and Cedar street.

Only the stoutness of the bridge over the sidewalk saved Senator Clark and a score of others. Four workmen, however, were not so fortunate, one being killed and the others seriously hurt.

Police Think A. O. Perry Is Bandit Who Held Up and Robbed Train Near Vinings

Postal clerk on the Queen and Crescent, who Friday afternoon positively identified A. O. Perry as one of the bandits who stabbed him and robbed his train of $40,000.

Passengers on N. C. & St. L. Will Try to Identify Suspect Held at Police Station With Two Companions

Passengers on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis train which was robbed at Vinings station the night of January 16, for which John Nolan, convicted as the bandit, received 20 years, will call at the police barracks Saturday afternoon to look at A. O. Perry, one of the three suspected yeggmen caught by the police Saturday, and perhaps identify him as the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis train robber.

The police believe Nolan is not the right man and that Perry is the robber. L. W. Janies, attorney for Nolan with Don K. Johnston is firm in his belief that Perry, and not Nolan is the train bandit.

In the yeggmen's outfit found under the house at 89 Brookline street by Sergeant Bullard Monday, there were three checked caps, similar to the one worn by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis train robber. Perry, with W. B. Gray and Rexford Shields was arrested in that house.

The house was identified because of a slip of paper found in John Nolan's pocket with the address, 89 Brookline street, on it. Nolan's attorneys will at once move for a new trial if Perry is identified as the robber.

PERRY IS IDENTIFIED.

Out of nine prisoners lined up against the bars in the south corridor of police headquarters Friday afternoon, Harry B. Melville, postal clerk on the Queen & Crescent southbound train which was robbed of $40,000 near Birmingham, Ala., the night of February 19, positively identified Perry as the bandit who stabbed him in the back when he refused to tell where the packages of money were hidden.

The clerk also singled out W. B. Gray, alias Tom Mullins, alias William Grant, and Rexford B. Fields, partially identifying them as part of the gang with Perry.

Butts County Sheriff On Trail With Hounds

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

JACKSON, Ga., March 21.—Sheriff Crawford and deputies are at Flovilla trying to find the trail of the man who attempted to hold up and rob Southern passenger, No. 12, between Flovilla and Cork Friday night. Railroad detectives from Macon also are on the scene working on the case.

The officers here were notified of the would be hold up at late hour Friday night, but Sheriff Crawford did not have any track dogs and he thought a pursuit in the darkness would be useless. So far nothing has been heard from Sheriff Crawford and his deputies who went to the scene early this morning.

STATE COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEETING APRIL 4

Chairman Harris Calls Meeting to Formulate Rules for Primary

Saturday, April 4, has been definitely fixed as the date upon which the state Democratic executive committee will meet to formulate rules for the primary and levy assessments on the various candidates.

Chairman William J. Harris, after conferring with the various committeemen and ascertaining that this date was generally acceptable, wrote to Governor Slaton and inquired as to his wishes on the matter. On Friday the governor wrote the chairman stating that the date suggested met with his approval.

At this meeting Senator W. S. West will resign as vice chairman of the committee, he having been appointed senator since he was chosen vice chairman.

STATE LENDS SUPERVISOR TO SURVEY CITY SCHOOLS

Superintendent Brittain Complies With Request of Atlanta Board of Education

M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, has informed L. M. Landrum, secretary of the city board of education, that the state department of education will be glad to lend one of the four state supervisors of schools for the purpose of making a survey of the Atlanta system, provided the survey will not take more than two weeks. The survey will be made at an early date.

Superintendent Brittain's letter, which follows, is of interest:

Atlanta, March 20, 1914.

Dear Sir: Your letter of March 17, asking me to act upon the request of the Atlanta board for a supervisor, has been received. I take pleasure in complying with the desire expressed.

There is some doubt as to whether or not I can detail one of these officials for this service by reason of the fact that Atlanta was specially exempter from the operations of the 1911 educational act. As a matter of courtesy—and even justice—however, I shall authorize any one of the four supervisors whom you may select to undertake the task, provided that the time required may not be more than two weeks. These officials are as follows: Miss Gertie Whitaker, Mr. M. L. Duggan, Mr. F. E. Land and Mr. George D. Godard.

As I understand it, this is not to be a probe or investigation, but a survey and as the term implies is an effort to have the impartial opinion of an educational expert upon the effectiveness of the plan and work of your schools. Such a survey ought to be of assistance to the state as well as to Atlanta and the state department of education will take pleasure in lending such aid as may be possible.

Very truly,

M. L. BRITTAIN,
State Superintendent of Schools.

MADAME CAILLAUX SOBS AS SHE TELLS STORY

Says She Killed Editor for Directing Abominable Campaign Against Husband

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 21.—Madame Caillaux, gowned in black, today sobbingly gave her version of the killing of Gaston Calmette before Henri Bouzard, the investigating magistrate.

Madame Caillaux began with a brief history of her married life. Then she remarked: "I always took great interest in the public life of my husband, sharing the pleasures and the cares of politics. The prisoner's recital was suspended temporarily when she burst into a fit of sobbing. On resuming her testimony she said, speaking slowly:

"For two years an abominable campaign was directed against my husband who was attacked on every occasion, notably on the charge that he had secretly ceded a portion of the French Congo to Germany and in connection with the Agadir incident in Morocco. I was deeply grieved by these calumnies which became particularly venomous at the time of the formation of the Doumergue cabinet. The feeling of hostility I noticed especially at receptions. My indignation was aroused because I had implicit faith in my husband's probity.

BURNS WILL LEAVE FOR OTHER CITIES TO PROBE FRANK CASE

Detective Will Not Say What Angle of Case Calls Him Away—Frank or Conley Is Guilty, He States

MILD REPLY IS MADE TO ATTACK OF LAWYER

Declares Purpose to Offend No One, and Says He Will Consult Attorney About Seeing Prisoner at Proper Time

Detective William J. Burns is preparing to leave Atlanta within the next few days to investigate certain angles of the Mary Phagan murder case, he admitted Saturday when questioned about his object in bringing two of the chief lieutenants of the Burns forces to the city.

Mr. Burns refuses to say what angles of the case will take him from the city, nor will he say where he is going. He may go to New York before he returns, he says, but will be in Atlanta when his final report is made.

Burns also admitted his investigation has not brought a third person into the case.

"There is no doubt," he says, "that the murder lies between the two men, Leo Frank and Jim Conley, the negro. Nothing which I have developed indicates in any way that a third person might have figured in the crime."

NEW TIME THEORY.

The detective was asked if, by any chance, his investigation might lead to Birmingham to see Mrs. J. B. Simmons, who heard screams in the factory on the afternoon of the day of the murder.

Although replying that he did not think it necessary to see Mrs. Simmons, Burns was evidently much interested in her statement and called attention to the fact that the basement of the factory is open, and screams would have been perfectly audible to a person waiting on the grating on the sidewalk, where Mrs. Simmons declares she stood.

This leads to the belief that Burns is working on an entirely different time theory from that held by the state in the trial, for it was at 12 o'clock, at any rate, when Mrs. Simmons heard screams.

Burns states that Dan Lelon manager of his New Orleans office, will arrive in the city Sunday and Monday Guy W. Biddinger, of his New York office will reach here. After their arrival he says, he will leave at once, but will hurry back to Atlanta as soon as his investigation will allow him to do so.

The detective still refuses to forecast the length of his investigation, although he says it is still progressing very satisfactorily.

"OH, PIFFLE," SAYS BURNS.

Mr. Burns treated the attack upon himself by William M. Smith attorney for Jim Conley both seriously and lightly.

When he picked up a newspaper and read the headline, "Detective Burns given hot roast by Will M. Smith," he exclaimed: "Oh, piffle." Then he read further and over Jim Conley pictures detective as "movie picture, stage lecturing and boastful."

"Why, M. Smith has made a serious mistake, said Burns, "I can't tango. The only one to teach the new dances that I get away with at all is the turkey trot."

When Burns reached the attorney's charge that he is playing to the gallerles, he lightly remarked that this charge is generally brought against him by other private detectives.

"Burns is not an old citizen and has no rights," the detective read and then remarked: "Well, that's rather hard."

"Burns is not a gentleman," the gentleman," the detective read, and then commented: "Well, I would hardly go to him as a leader."

Then Burns said more seriously: "If anything I have said can be construed as saying has hurt Mr. Smith, I am sincerely sorry. It is not my intention to try to trample on the rights of Mr. Smith or any one else. If he really represents the negro, and I cannot say that he does not, why most staff, which has been working at high pressure.

GRAVEST ISSUE.

"Liberalism will not flinch one inch before the arrogant and insolent plague of Toryism," was the message conveyed by Chancellor Lloyd-George to a meeting of Liberals at Huddersfield. The chancellor was talking about Ulster and the attitude of the Unionists. He said:

"The country is confronted with the gravest issue in the history of democratic government since the days of the Stuarts. Representative government in this land is at stake. I am here on behalf of the government to say we mean to confront this defiance of popular liberties with resolute and unwavering determination whatever the hazard may be. We are not fighting about Ulster, or about home rule; we are fighting all that is essential to the civil liberty of this land."

3,000 Regular Troops Arrive in Ulster Towns

(By Associated Press.)

BELFAST, March 21.—Within twenty-four hours over 3,000 regular troops, including four battalions of infantry, with machine guns and two batteries of field artillery, all equipped for active service, have arrived in the various towns of Ulster.

Those troops form the advance guard of a large armed force which the military authorities are sending to the northern province of Ireland, to prevent the assumption of local government by anti-home rulers.

It was generally expected here that a cavalry brigade would be concentrated in Belfast during the week end. The Sixteenth Queen's Lancers and the Fourth Queen's Own Hussars, stationed at Curragh, yesterday were equipped with carbines and were ready to move northward.

These preparations by the war office so far have not created any public demonstration in Belfast. The leaders of the so-called Unionist, provincial government, however, admit their anxiety lest their overenthusiastic followers precipitate riots the two days of idleness at the week end and give their opponents the sought for opportunity for enforcing rigorous repressive measures.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, and his associates, desire the government to take the first provocative step. They, afterward, realizing the vitalness of preventing an undisciplined outbreak as a protest against the home rule movements, today again urged the Ulstermen to keep cool during the week end.

The East Belfast special service corps," which corresponds to the American militia, relieved the West Belfast "special service corps," this morning and took up its duties in Captain Craig's grounds.

Admittance to the old town hall of Belfast, which is the official headquarters of the "provisional government," has been denied to all visitors.

Some of the soldiers and the officers of the infantry battalions quartered in Ulster, including the Dorsetshire regiment and the Norfolk regiment, have openly expressed their disinclination to take the offensive. This does not cause any surprise among civilians who generally expect wholesale defections.

Say Officers of Queen's Own Hussars Resign

(By Associated Press.)

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 21.—Field Marshal John French, chief of the imperial general staff, arrived here today in connection with the resignation of officers from the cavalry brigade due to their refusal to march against the Unionists in Ulster.

Nearly all of the officers of the Fourth Queen's own huzzars stationed at the Curragh camp are said to have handed in their commissions and their places have been filled.

The first victim of the existing state of excitement was a sentry at Curragh camp, who was late for roll call. He attempted to scale a wall of the barracks and was shot and probably fatally wounded by a sentry.

Report Resignation of Commander of Brigade

(By Associated Press.)

DUBLIN, March 21.—It was reported here today that Brigadier General Hubert de la Poer Gough, the commander of the third cavalry brigade at Curragh, composed of the Sixteenth Lancers and the Fourth Hussars, has resigned.

Large bodies of armed police left today for various stations in the north of Ireland.

Artillery in Ireland Held in Readiness

(By Associated Press.)

ATHLONE, Ireland, March 21.—All regular artillery in central and Southern Ireland has been instructed to be ready to proceed to Ulster at a moment's notice.

CHINAMAN'S WHITE WIFE ADMITS MARRIAGE FAILURE

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Mrs. Elvide C. Cheng, white wife of Enseng W. Cheng, a Chinese physician of Boston, was granted a divorce in superior court yesterday on the ground of extreme cruelty. After six years of married life during which she endeavored to adapt herself to the Oriental modes of life, Mrs. Cheng admitted to the court that she was sorry she was concerned intermarriage of the white and yellow races is a failure.

Mrs. Cheng was allowed $100 a month alimony and permission to resume her maiden name of Nelson. Dr. Cheng made no contest to his wife's suit.

BRYAN'S LLAMA WILL BE SENT TO ENGLAND

NEW YORK, March 21.—The llama which arrived last Sunday by the steamship Verdi from Buenos Aires, consigned to William J. Bryan, will be deported next Tuesday on the Verdi, not back to South America, but to England. At least it will start for England, but before now it is said, dead llamas have been found floating in from the three mile limit, after they had been rejected by the live stock quarantine inspectors. Members of the crew who have been caring for llama express the opinion that the inspector was mistaken in saying it had the foot and mouth disease.

NAVY NAME BOATS AFTER GREEK FIGHTERS

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Two ancient Greek fighters' names have been chosen for two small vessels which the Isthmian canal commission has turned over to the navy department. Ulysses and Achilles will be the names of the ships, which were used by the canal builders as colliers and supply boats and which will be converted for similar duty by the navy.

Wilson Draws Intimate Picture of Himself As President of the Nation

Describes How Difficult It Is to Imagine Himself Chief Executive—Tells of Struggles to Be Ordinary Citizen

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Woodrow Wilson has unbosomed himself to members of the National Press club of Washington, telling them, in a frank, conversational way, how he felt as president of the United States, how difficult it was for him to imagine himself as the chief executive with the formalities and the position, and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office. It was an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson, the man, drawn by himself, on the occasion of the "house warming" at the Press club's new quarters yesterday. The president did not intend to have his remarks reported, but later, at the request of the club, the unusual speech was made public. It follows:

I was just thinking of my sense of confusion of identity, sometimes, when I read articles about myself. I never have read an article about myself in which I recognized myself, and I have come to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolutely good faith. I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the impressions I make—and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold and removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances, which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind, but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work.

SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY.

I am not aware of having any detachable apparatus inside of me. On the contrary, if I were to interpret myself, I would say that my constant embarrassment is to restrain the emotions that are inside of me. You may not believe it, but I sometimes feel like a far from settled volcano, and if the lava does not seem to spill over it is because you are not high enough to see into the basin and see the caldron boil. Because, truly, gentlemen, in the position which I now occupy there is a sort, I do not know how else to express it than to say, passionate sense of being constantly quartered with fellowmen in a peculiar relationship of responsibility. Not merely the responsibility which I, but God knows there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected.

I have mixed, and am still, with all sorts and conditions of men—there are mighty few kinds of men that have to be described to me, and there are mighty few kinds of experience that have to be described to me—and when I think of the number of men who are looking to me for the regeneration of a party, with the hope for all varieties of salvation from the things they are struggling in the midst of, it makes me tremble. It makes me tremble not only with a sense of my own inadequacy and weakness, but as if I were shaken by the very things that are shaking them; and if I seem circumspect, it is because I am so diligently trying not to make any colossal blunders. If you just calculated the number of blunders a fellow can make in twenty-four hours, if he be not careful I don't see he does not listen more than he talks, you would see something of the feeling that I have.

TRIES TO AVOID BLUNDERS.

I was amused the other day at a remark that Senator Newlands made. I had read him the trust message I was to deliver to congress some two days before I delivered it, and I never stop 'doctoring' things of that kind until the day I have to deliver them.

When he heard it read to congress he said, 'I think it was better than when you read it to me,' I said, 'Senator, there is one thing which I do not think you understand. I not only read it to others, I have, but all I can borrow, and I have borrowed a few since I read it to you first.' That I dare say is what gives the impression of circumspectness. I am listening.

I am trying diligently to collect all the brains that are borrowable that I may not make more blunders than it is inevitable that a man should make who has great limitations of knowledge and capacity. And the emotion of the thing is so great that I suppose I must be some kind of a mask to conceal it.

I really feel some times as if I were masquerading when I catch a picture of myself in some printed description. In between things that I have to do as public officer I never thing of myself as the president of the United States, because I never have had any sense of being identified with that office. I feel like a person appointed for a certain length of time to administer that office, and I feel just as much outside of it at this moment as I did before I was elected to it. I feel just as much outside of it as I still feel outside of the government of the United States.

"IT IS ONLY ME."

No man could imagine himself the government of the United States; but he could understand that some part of his fellow citizens had told him to go and run a certain part of it that he knew about how. That would not make him the government itself or the thing itself. It would just make him responsible for running it the best he knew how. The reason he is so much greater than himself; the office is so much greater than himself; the office is so much greater than he can ever me, and the most he can do is to look grave enough and self possessed enough to seem to fill it. I can hardly refrain every now and again from tipping the public the wink, as much as to say "It is only me" that is inside this thing. I know perfectly well that I will have to get out presently. I know that then I will look just my own proper size, and that for the time being the proportions are somewhat refracted and misrepresented to the eye by the large thing I am inside of.

For example, take matters of this sort: I will not say whether it is wise or unwise, simple or grave, but certain precedents have been established that in certain companies the president must leave the room first, and I confess I think a great many of these articles are written in absolutely good faith. I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the impressions I make—and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold and removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances, which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind, but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work.

For example, take matters of this sort: I will not say whether it is wise or unwise, simple or grave, but certain precedents have been established that in certain companies the president must leave the room first, and I confess I think a great many of these articles are written. They must not sit down if he is standing up. It is a very uncomfortable thing to have to think of all the other people every time I get up and sit down, and all that sort of thing. So that when I get guests in my house and the public is shut out, I adjourn being president and take leave to be a gentleman. If they draw back and insist upon my doing something first, I firmly decline. There are blessed intervals when I forget, by one means or another, that I am president of the United States. One means by which I forget is to get a rattling good detective story, get after some imaginary offender, and chase him all over—preferably any continent but this. Because the various parts of this continent are becoming painfully suggestive to me. The postoffices, and many other things, which stir reminiscence, have 'sicked them o'er with a pale cast of thought.' There are postoffices to which I wouldn't think of without trembling with the knowledge of all the heartbreaking of the struggle there was in connection with getting somebody installed as postmaster.

NO FREEDOM THERE.

Now, if I were free, I would come not infrequently up to these rooms. You know I was in Washington but a few times and for a very few hours until I came here, and I never expect to see the inside of the public buildings in Washington until my term is up. The minute I turn up anywhere I am personally conducted to beat the band. The custodians, the assistant secretaries, and every other blooming official turns up, and they show me so much attention that I don't see of the building. I would have to say 'stand aside' and let me see what you are showing me some day after I am through with this office I am going to come to Washington and see it.

In the meantime I am in the same category as the National museum, the Smithsonian Washington institute, or the congressional library. If I only knew an exhibition, appearance to assure—apparently I can assume other appearances that do not show what is going on inside—I would like to have it pointed out, so that I could practice for it until the feeling rises and see if I could look like the monument. Being regarded as a national exhibit, would be much simpler than being shaken hands with by the whole United States.

And yet that is interesting to me, simply because I like human beings. It is a pretty poor crowd that does not interest you. I think they would have to be all members of that class that devotes itself to 'expense regardless' of pleasure in order to be entirely uninteresting. These look so much alike—spend their time trying to look so much alike—and so relieve themselves of all responsibility of thought—that they are very monotonous indeed to look at; whereas, a crowd picked up off the street is just a jolly lot—a fob lot of real human beings, pulsating with all kinds of thoughts and desires. It would be a great pleasure if, unobserved and unattended, I could be knocked around, as I have been accustomed to being knocked around all my life; if I could resort to any delightful quarter, to any place in Washington, that I choose. I have sometimes thought of going to some customer's establishment—a costumer's—and buying an assortment of beards, rouge, and coloring and all the known means of disguising myself, if it were not against the law. You see I have a scruple as president against breaking the law; and disguising one's self is against the law, but if I could disguise myself and not get caught I would go out, be a free American citizen once more, and have a jolly time. I might then meet some of you gentlemen and actually tell you what I really thought.

BURNS WILL LEAVE FOR OTHER CITIES TO PROBE FRANK CASE

certainly I will go to him when I want to talk to Conley."

Burns was asked if he had decided when he would make an effort to see the negro, and replied laughingly that he is in no hurry about the matter, as he sees no chance of the negro's leaving suddenly.

SMITH ATTACKS BURNS.

In a scathing card William M. Smith, as attorney for Jim Conley, thrown down the gauntlet to Detective William J. Burns and defies the noted sleuth to see the negro without his permission. Burns recently had laughed at the idea that Smith could prevent his seeing the negro accuser of Leo Frank.

Smith asserts positively that if Burns, whom he characterizes as a "moving picture" sleuth, ever sees the negro it will be after he has consulted with Conley's attorney and agreed to conditions which he (Smith) will stipulate.

Burns has openly charged that there is a conspiracy on foot, for which he blames private detective agencies, to throw obstacles in the path of his work on the Mary Phagan murder case. The manifestation of that conspiracy, the detective is scored, follows in full: a telegram to Jim Conley from Newark, N. J., warning the negro to beware of the detective.

SMITH'S STATEMENT.

If the papers are correctly quoting William J. Burns, this movie picture, stage lecturing, tangoing sleuth, following his usual methods of playing to the galleries, he must prove not only a disappointment to his employers, but a downright injury to the cause in which he was hired, and for which, I presume, he is being paid.

Atlantians generally no doubt hoped that a Daniel had come to judgment, and that a truly great mind, with lofty purposes, had quietly moved into this great issue to search out the truth, without parade or display.

With the responsibility for the right in the crisis of our big administration resting, in a measure, upon me, I had hoped for something from Burns, but with a great deal more hope, however, than faith, I must admit.

Burns' statements (like many of his swiftly-formed and published opinions) that no co-operation was unnecessary to an interview with Conley may be a prematurely formed opinion, and, at least, an unfortunate expression of them. Unless the sheriff or his deputies fly in the face of the order of court and the expressed wish of this ignorant negro prisoner and his counsel—and I have no reason to believe they will—Mr. Burns will find that his expressed opinion in this matter is sadly wrong.

Mr. Burns in this matter will at least be taught that he is merely a "private detective," working for his employers, "private parties." He is not even a citizen. Burns has no rights in this matter. He is in no way connected with the administration of the law of this state.

WILL DICTATE TO JUDGE.

If Burns ever sees Conley he must come to me as a gentleman should and express an understanding that he has no rights in the matter, and if his request are reasonable and meet with Conley's approval, and Burns will agree to such terms as I dictate, Burns will receive consideration as far as the situation—in my judgment—demands.

If Burns is allowed to see Conley it will not be as a matter of right, but as a matter of courtesy from Conley and his counsel.

It ought to be to the everlasting shame and disgrace of William J. Burns should he come here to perform a high service for truth's sake and sacrifice it upon the altar of his desire for publicity. This is no time for bombast and braggadocio.

The public mind of our people is sternly, determinedly bent upon truth seeking only. Human life is at stake. Human justice is in issue. Whatever prevails must be right. It is high time to sink in-

GENERAL CASTRO FOUND IN HIS BROTHER'S HOME

Police Also Raid Hotel and Find 40,000 Rounds of Ammunition

(By Associated Press.)

PORT OF SPAIN, March 21.—General Cipriano Castro, former dictator of Venezuela, whose whereabouts had been unknown for several months, was discovered here today.

A party of detectives last night raided a hotel occupied almost solely by Venezuelans and found there 40,000 rounds of ammunition and a few revolvers. This discovery led to a further raid early today. The police proceeded to a house which had been occupied for several months by General Carmelo Castro, a brother of the former president. Armed with a search warrant they went over the place. Among the effects of the occupants they found only one revolver and a few cartridges. On entering one of the rooms, however, they found it occupied by General Cipriano Castro himself. The one time dictator was extremely indignant over the procedure of the police, whose methods he denounced as harsh and unnecessary.

It is stated that Sir George Le Hunte, the governor, cabled to London today for instructions from the foreign office regarding Castro.

BABY'S YELL FRIGHTENS BANDIT FROM TRAIN

Amateur Hold-Up Man Attempts Robbery but Nerve Fails Him in Pinch

"Up with your hands!"

Three men playing set-back in a day coach of the Ohio special, Macon to Atlanta, Friday night looked up to the doorway to behold a masket bandit and a gun as big as a forty-pounder.

He is a Head Brummel of a south tastily arrayed in a light checked suit, a green telescope bow hat, yellow kid gloves, highly polished tan shoes, stylish collar and green tie, green silk socks with a blue silk handkerchief draped artistically over his face—a slender youth who waves his arsenal lightly to and fro.

The men stared with mouths agape. Then a baby in the second seat yells with the siren whoop only an infant can give that is hungry and tired and full of cinders.

The bandit shrinks from the doorway, draws from the speeding train and disappears into the darkness.

The Great Dude Holdup is over.

That is the tale told by passengers on the Ohio Special when it pulled into Atlanta Union at 11 o'clock Friday night, some two hours late.

The Ohio Special, Southern train No. 13, left Macon two hours late Friday night. At 10:40 o'clock the special stopped at Flovilla to take on water, while the engine was drinking deeply and loudly at the water tank, Jim Clinton, colored porter, stepped off the platform to the ground.

Dreaming of tips or watermelons or "hick-hee" or something equally as delightful, Jim swung easily aboard as the train began to move off to Atlanta.

At the same instant the shadows on the other side of the train gulped open, a little man dived into the steps and cold steel pressed into Jim's white shirt-front.

"Don't move, or you're a dead man," Jim reports the bandit as saying.

But Jim moved. He moved quickly. It is generally held that he "turned exactly flying, but passed them that was." As Jim disappeared out of one end of the day coach—for the first farthest from the bandit—yelling blood and thunder the while; this Georgia Dick Turpin stepped into the doorway and faced a curtain of shocked passengers.

DRAWS HEAD ON DOCTOR.

In the front seat was Dr. E. W. Smith, of 127 Auburn avenue, Atlanta, Smith had $30 in his pocket and was painfully aware of it.

The bandit flicked a cinder from his sat sleeve, drew a head on Smith and told him to "fork over."

"I'll see you dead first," Smith says he told the would-be robber.

At that instant, Conductor J. H. Grahm, on the second seat entering the door end of the car, sighted the bandit. He jumped for the emergency rope and yelled it frantically.

The bandit paused irresolute.

It was at that moment the unknown baby, here, there, everywhere, in his mother's arms behind Smith, thought of his supper and said so loudly.

The bandit oozed out of the door. Already the engineer had responded to the emergency signal and the train was grinding to a stop. The bandit dropped to the ground, stumbled, wiped off his trouser knees and fled.

Conductor Grahm, who had gone to warn the baggagemaster, returned to the day coach and began to pacify the frightened passengers.

"The whole bunch had jammed into the door end of the coach," he says. "They were yelling and screaming and trying to see which one could grab hold of the rear rail and step first. All but three men—and, let me see—I believe there was a woman and baby sitting quietly right in front of me. The baby was drinking milk out of a bottle as peaceful as a lamb."

FORMER GUARDS OF CONVICTS CONVICTED

Tyree and Thomason Each to Pay a Fine of $200 or Serve 12 Months

Clyde A. Thomason, former deputy warden of the Adamsville convict camp, and Ed Tyree, former convict guard, were each fined $200 or sentenced to twelve months on the gang for assault and battery in beating two convicts, by Judge Ben H. Hill Friday afternoon.

Thomason was found guilty of beating James Bowden, an aged white convict. Another indictment against him, for assault with intent to murder John M. Harris, another white convict, was nolle prossed upon motion of the solicitor general.

Ed Tyree's case began with a plea of not guilty, and started with a jury in the box, but, after Steve Spratling, a colored convict, had testified how Tyree had beaten him, and after another negro had corroborated this testimony, Attorneys Luther Z. Rosser and Ben J. Conyers, for the defense, entered a plea of guilty, the right to put up witnesses for the defense. After these witnesses had testified the court sentenced Tyree.

Judge Hill stated, before sentencing Tyree, that the power given to one man to whip another was a terrible power, one that is not permitted in many states, but which is allowed in Georgia, when it is shown that the whipping is reasonable. Thomason is understood to have moved for a new trial.

In his petition Spencer alleges that he was in the employ of the railroad company when a large piece of timber fell upon him, before either before or dislodged through the carelessness of employes of the railroad company and Roberts & Schaeffer; that it struck him on the head, crushing his skull, causing the loss of brain matter and rendering him incapable of further work during his life.

THIEVES BREAK AND ROB GAS METER

While the family of C. E. Miller, of 168 South Forsyth street, were quietly sitting in the front room reading about 10 o'clock Friday evening the lights glimmered thin and suddenly were extinguished.

Investigation revealed that the gas meter money box had been robbed and the pipes broken, while the servant's house in the rear had been ransacked by the unidentified thieves.

LETTERS ON FRANK CASE

JUDGE KONTZ INDORSES EDITORIAL IN JOURNAL

Statements From Over South Continue to Pour Through Mail to Journal

And still they come—letters indorsing The Journal's editorial suggestion that "Leo M. Frank Should Have a New Trial." Thousands of fair-minded, conscientious and fearless citizens are agreeing with The Journal that the conditions obtaining when Frank was tried were so extraordinary that it was impossible for him to have had a fair and impartial trial such as is guaranteed to every one by the law and the constitution.

A few more commendatory letters are published below:

FROM JUDGE E. C. KONTZ.

Judge Ernest C. Kontz, well-known Atlanta attorney, former city recorder, ex-councilman and ex-member of the city board of education, gives expression to his views in the following letter:

Atlanta, Ga., March 19, 1914.
James R. Gray,
Editor Atlanta, Journal,
City.

Dear Mr. Gray:

Your editorial, favoring a new trial for Leo Frank, voiced the conviction of many fair-minded people of unprejudiced minds who feel that as the case was based on circumstantial evidence, and that the able and learned judge, who tried the case, was in doubt of his guilt or innocence, under the evidence then presented, and as important new evidence has been secured, and the strength of some of that delivered at the trial has been, to say the least, weakened, not to speak of the personal demeanor and public expressions of the prisoner, both in his address to the court at the time of his resentence, and through interviews, since his conviction, a new trial should be granted.

I have no connection, direct, or indirect, with this case, and I feel that cases should be tried, not in the criminal, should, as a rule, not be fought out in the newspapers, and as a member of the bar, with the highest respect for the courts and their officers, I wish to say that this expression on my part does not imply any lack of appreciation of the splendid ability and the high character of each of the judges and the officers of court who have handled this case, they have done their duty, as they saw it, fearlessly, but they are bound down by technicalities and legal precedents, the principal of which is that the jury is the final judge of the evidence; and this jury was bound by the evidence submitted to them, and they could not, no human being could, weigh the value in the case of the fact that the trial ran on for a month in the overcrowded court room, in an August, of a summer as hot as Atlanta has ever known, when thousands of people were more unsettled than they have been in a generation, precluding that calm dispassionate deliberation to which a citizen on trial for his life was entitled. Every man knows that under such conditions calmness and the highest mental alertness are impossible, and that the most brilliant intellect can not at their best.

Let the sworn evidence as to individual jurors having been swayed by prejudice, or the jury as a whole being influenced by mob violence be what it may, all agree that this was no common case. The proceedings were easily wire around the world, and every man knows that the public mind was inflamed.

I am reliably informed that during the trial a former mayor of Atlanta, a man of calm, judicial mind, saw, going towards the court house, a gentleman, a friend of his, who he thought might, on account of his associations, be suspected, by some of the excited crowd around the court house, of sympathizing with Frank, and advised the gentleman not to go that way, as he considered it dangerous for him to do so. Under such circumstances and conditions, the fact of that existed, not to say hostile, feeling of a considerable part of the public, could no more be kept from that jury than could the sun's scorching heat, though its rays did not strike them.

If Frank is guilty I say unhesitatingly, let him hang.

Personally, I believe in capital punishment, and because I do, and because in my opinion the execution of Frank, without another trial, would do more than any other one thing has ever done to break down abhorrence of capital punishment in Georgia, I think a new trial should be granted; and because of this political aspect of the case, as distinguished from the judicial, I feel, though a lawyer, at liberty to thus express my views, and to indorse your editorial in the public press.

I am, very truly,
ERNEST C. KONTZ.

FROM A. B. STEELE.

A. B. Steele, Atlanta capitalist and president of the Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay railroad, says:

Atlanta, Ga., March 19, 1914.
Mr. James R. Gray, Editor Atlanta Journal, City.

Dear Mr. Gray: Feeling, as every law-abiding citizen should, that justice should always prevail, and that the condition of the public mind was such as to prevent Leo Frank from having a fair trial, I wish to thoroughly endorse your splendid editorial in behalf of a new trial for him.

The expression by the presiding judge that he was not satisfied in his own mind as to whether or not Mr. Frank was guilty of the crime with which he is charged, thoroughly expressed my attitude, and I feel confident, if granted another chance, at a time when the public clamor has died down, justice will prevail, which is what we desire. The guilty should be punished, no matter who the offender may be.

Trusting that you will continue to use the editorial columns of your great paper in the cause of justice, to the end that Frank may have a fair and impartial trial, where he will at least have a chance to prove his innocence, or the state to prove his guilt, I beg to remain,

Very sincerely yours,
A. B. STEELE.

FROM MR. AND MRS. BALLENTINE.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Ballentine, of Cardenas, N. C., have written the following joint letter to The Journal's editor:

Cardenas, N. C., March 16, 1914.
Mr. James R. Gray, Editor Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Gray: Our appreciation of your editorial in regard to the case of Leo Frank is so strong that we dare not withhold it from you. We appreciate your boldness, your liberality and your strong plea for justice. We, like you, recognize the fact that this case is so extraordinary in every detail that no ordinary rules can apply, and we rejoice in the fact that there is, at least, one editor who dares to break all precedent and to make himself an exponent of personal journalism.

We know that public opinion is always a very plastic, and, at times, a very dangerous thing. It is a contagion that affects the weak, the emotional and the narrow-minded, while the more reasonable and independent thinkers often remain immune. The pages of history are always crimsoned where the multitude is stirred to a violent passion, and where public opinion runs riot. It was so in the days of Socrates, and equally so in the days of poor Marie Antoinette.

But if this man be innocent, and was convicted through the influence and atmosphere of public opinion, there is hope that this same sentiment may be remolded and brought to a saner and more reasonable view of facts through the influence of the press.

We read between the lines of your editorial that conscientiousness of the grave responsibilities of the press—that you are aware that much harm may result to the state and the individual through its failure to expose wrongs and injustice—and in view of these facts, we appreciate what you have already said, and we hope that you may keep on pleading for an impartial trial for this man, lest at some future day facts may develop to exonerate him, and we, an enlightened nation, may not stand before the world as judicially murdering an innocent man.

Understand us, we are Gentiles, and believe this unfortunate affair, we never heard of this man. We have absolutely no interest in the matter other than to see justice meted out to each individual, which is the pride and the boast of our government.

Very sincerely,
MR. AND MRS. LEN BALLENTINE.

FROM MRS. C. M. PORTER.

Mrs. C. M. Porter, of Carrollton, Ga., writes as follows:

Carrollton, Ga., March 14, 1914.
Editor Atlanta Journal.

Dear Sir:

Your outspoken conviction in reference to giving Leo Frank a new trial was nobly brave. Who but a Christian, with reason and moderation will approve and admire your pluck as I do.

Give the man a "square deal" and prove to the world that our courts are not governed by mob law or race prejudice. Many unjustices has been committed and we want the guilty punished, but we do not wish to add another by hanging a possibly innocent man.

I am a believer in giving every one justice and wish to express my admiration for the brave stand you took in your editorial. I beg to be most

Respectfully,
MRS. C. M. PORTER.

FROM M. U. MOOTY.

M. U. Mooty, attorney, of LaGrange, says:

LaGrange, Ga.
March 14, 1914.

Editor of Journal.
Atlanta.

Dear Sir: I wish to congratulate you most heartily and sincerely, on your position you have taken in your recent editorial relative to the Frank case.

As a lawyer and as a citizen I have taken a keen interest in the case. I was in Atlanta the day Mary was killed. I was in the Kimball House when the jury returned the verdict. Sitting in my room on the south side I could hear the cheers and applause that greeted the reception of the verdict. There was nothing in the noise to suggest that a man's life was in the balance, but to the contrary, a festive occasion.

If Frank is guilty he deserves to be taken in cool, deliberate judgment. It gave one who was not in the same atmosphere queer feelings. It was the shout of the mob.

"I am not satisfied as to his guilt or innocence," but he should be tried again under saner circumstances. Let the atmosphere be such that the defendant may venture out and hear his own verdict. Let him hear all of his own trial without risking what hope of life he yet has.

Yours very truly,
M. U. MOOTY.

ATTORNEYS APPOINTED TO DEFEND NEGRO

Judge William C. Newman, of the United States court for the northern district of Georgia, Saturday morning, appointed R. B. Blackburn and John Moore, attorneys to defend Walter Keeler, a negro, charged with the murder of John Oudendyke, a federal convict guard, January 5, last.

Keeler has been indicted by a federal grand jury and the trial of his case has been set for next Tuesday.

"CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right or who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach.

Are you going to let your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, indigested, fermenting food mass in the cases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste as good—never gripe or sicken.—(Advt.)

POLICEMAN SAVES GIRLS FROM MAD DOG'S ATTACK

Call Officer Fires Bullet Into Animal's Head, Killing It Instantly

Expert marksmanship on the part of Call Officer B. B. Haslett Thursday afternoon saved two little girls from an attack from a vicious mad dog.

Officer Haslett was returning from a call on the east side. While riding his motorcycle through Moore street, just off Decatur, he was attracted by a negro who called his attention to two little girls who were being pursued by a large hound dog, from whose mouth foam was flowing.

While the officer was dismounting from his motorcycle one of the little girls dashed into a residence, the other was several steps distant and the dog was almost upon her. Officer Haslett, who was between 50 and 100 feet away, shot the dog through the head with his pistol.

The little girls disappeared before the officer could ascertain their names. As a result of the shooting the neighborhood was thrown into great excitement.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

Neil O'Brien and his new band of minstrels minstrels will be the attraction at the Atlanta Monday and Tuesday and one of the biggest and best shows of the year is promised. Neil O'Brien has long held a high place in the affections of the public and last year his show proved he was strong when he began his tour. This season he has a better show than last and it is new from start to finish. He has a number of old faces with him and also many new comedians, dancers and singers and he is certain to hit the public favor. Seats are now selling for the engagement.

This morning seats for the return of the Ziegfeld Follies were placed on sale at the Atlanta and a long line of buyers was on hand when the box office opened. Indications point to a large crowds as last week when the company broke all Atlanta records. The Follies is unquestionably the biggest show ever seen in Atlanta and the public showed its appreciation by demanding the return in such a manner that Manager George was able to persuade Klaw & Erlanger and Mr. Ziegfeld to consent to the cancellation of Macon and Jacksonville to provide for Atlanta. The same stars and the same wonderful chorus comes back. The engagement is for Wednesday and Thursday with a matinee Thursday.

Matinee and night performances today close this week's brilliant entertainment at the Forsyth theater, which is headlined by William Gaxton, who spiels did "Beauty is Only Skin Deep" sketch.

Next week Mary Marble and Little Chip will create a big sensation by its capacity, as there is hardly a more popular or better known pair in theatricals who can hold a candle to them in this city. They will present the picture book playlet. "The Land of Dykes."

The Castle pictures will be the big features. These pictures show Mr. and Mrs. Castle dancing in the San Souci in New York, and will be of special interest to those who have acquired the dance craze in Atlanta.

BIRD SHOT A CURE FOR CHICKEN THIEF

Bob James, colored, notorious chicken thief, who declared he "was cured" after J. H. Willis filled his face with bird shot on Leonard street two years ago just as Bob was in the act of lifting a couple of fat pullets, is again in the toils of the law.

Saturday morning he was arrested on Decatur street with two fine dressed fowls in his possession. Bob said he tried in police court Saturday morning on the charge of stealing them.

Officers Jones and Gorman saw Bob on Decatur street with a basket under his arm about 8 o'clock. As soon as Bob saw the officers he began to run. They chased after him and brought him to bay in a pool room.

Bob declares the chickens were not stolen, but were given to him "by a white woman." Bob's previous mishap, which put out one eye, hasn't affected his taste, as both the birds are fine specimens.

HER EXPERIENCE GAINED ON TRIP

Found That Ladies in State Agreed With Her on One Important Question

Mangham, La.—Mrs. Liza Barber, of this town, who has returned from a trip in West and Middle Tenessee, has the following to say: "I have been on a trip in Middle and West Tennessee where I found many ladies using Cardui, the woman's tonic. While traveling I took great pleasure in telling what it had done for me—I not only praised Cardui—but advised poor suffering women to take it. I know that Cardui cured me and I believe it will do the same for other women.

Some time ago I could hardly stand on my feet, and I had given up ever having good health. After using two bottles of Cardui I could tell it was helping me, and I continued taking it for awhile. I soon felt as well as I ever did, and could do all of my work.

I shall always praise it as a great medicine to every suffering woman. I think there is no other half so good."

Mrs. Barber would have found weak, ailing women taking Cardui almost anywhere she could have gone, because Cardui is recognized as the standard woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women back to health and strength in the past 50 years.

Why shouldn't it help you?

Welcome spring, even if you are disguised.

While Burns is here, let him solve the mystery of this unusual weather.

Georgia's Urgent Need of A Highway Commission.

The current issue of Southern Good Roads, a magazine of high merit, credits Georgia with "setting a pace in road building that the rest of the South finds hard to follow, but adds, in a tone of well warranted regret, that the State has no central highway department.

"The work in Georgia is left to the counties, and there is no attempt at State supervision of road and bridge work. It naturally follows that a great deal of money has been wasted and is being wasted. A better day is in sight. The good people of Georgia are beginning to realize the need of an intelligent, central board to direct the expenditure of road funds and to make possible a system of intercounty highways. Bills are being prepared for introduction at the next session of the Legislature that will provide for a State highway commission and a measure of State aid in road building. It may be impossible to secure the passage of a progressive, up-to-date State-aid road law now, but it is practically certain that a forward step will be taken. The good roads advocates of the State expect to secure the passage of a law providing engineering assistance for the counties, if nothing more."

Certain it is that the Legislature will enact such a law, if it is duly mindful of public interests and of the counsel of expert students of highway construction the nation over. Georgia is grievously handicapped by its lack of a well directed system of road building. Individual counties are devoting liberal sums of money to highway improvement and some five thousand convicts are employed in this work, but there is no State supervision, no means by which the separate counties may correlate their plans and their energy for the good of the commonwealth as a whole.

The Prison Commission, to be sure, has taken a forward step by appointing as State road inspector a skilled engineer whose service is freely offered the counties that ask it. But it is impossible for one engineer to meet the demands of even a tithe of all the counties. What is needed in Georgia is a competent commission thoroughly equipped to advise and aid individual communities and to bring order and economy into the mass of particular efforts in highway work. Such a commission would save hundreds of thousands of dollars and would bring the State an admirable system of inter-county roads.

The next event on the program will be the appearance of the first straw hat.

Still, there will always be applicants for the job, even if President Wilson has pointed out some of the disadvantages of being president.

Facts on Non-Employment.

An official canvass of New York City to determine the number of persons without employment has disclosed the interesting fact that there are only some ninety-six thousand out of a population of more than five and a half million, and that the majority of these are engaged in "seasonal and transient vocations" which are always closed at certain times of the year regardless of general industrial conditions.

These authentic figures stand out in sharp contrast to the wild cries of political mischief-makers who contended that in New York City alone there were three hundred thousand idle men. It was on this exaggerated report that Representative James R. Mann, leader of the Republican minority in the House, predicated his attack on Democratic policies; and other calamity croakers, among them certain unscrupulous newspapers, sought to convey the impression that conditions of unemployment the country over were unprecedented and alarming.

Responsible inquiry will prove the falseness of such reports in other cities and sections as it has in New York. The number of unemployed has been no greater during the winter now drawing to a close than during the same season of years gone by. Rigorous weather always slackens certain kinds of work, and men without jobs drift to centers of population. Besides these, the confirmed tramps and idlers by preference flock to large cities in winter, hoping to find charity and easy living. The number of unemployed has been steadily decreasing for weeks past and from now forward will grow less and less.

The New York Herald well says that the figures established by the official canvass "will prove the hardest blow the calamity howlers have yet received." The country's business life was never more wholesome and secure, the conditions of prosperity never more sound and promising. Trouble-mongers who seek to arouse fear and distrust by false reports are like the classic fool who tried to turn the sun to ice by fanning its face with a peacock feather.

Will Huerta Retire?

If it be true as reported that the minister of foreign affairs in the Huerta cabinet has been directed to reopen diplomatic exchanges with John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, events of much importance may be near.

The retirement of Huerta would mark a decisive step toward quieting the stormy conditions across the Rio Grande and would remove a serious obstacle in the way of our own government's policy of pacification. Would a resumption of parleys, unofficial though they are, between a member of Huerta's cabinet and the President's envoy betoken the dictator's inclination to retire?

Taken in connection with other circumstances, it undoubtedly would. From a military point of view, Huerta is probably no weaker than he was months ago. The revolutionists, to be sure, have gained undisputed control over northern Mexico, but they have made scant headway in their projected march toward the capital.

From the standpoint of finance, however, Huerta's situation is evidently desperate. He must be convinced by now that he cannot secure foreign loans so long as the United States discountenances his regime, and his efforts to wring further tribute from the Mexicans themselves have proved ineffectual.

A recent dispatch relates that he summoned to the national palace sixty of the wealthiest Mexicans, residing in the capital, and intimated that indirect financial support would be highly agreeable; "he reminded them that a decree issued several months ago calling upon owners of hacienda to equip and maintain ten men for purposes of defense has never been complied with."

The fact is, the dictator is virtually begging money but meeting no response. In these circumstances, he cannot hope to retain power, even though the revolutionists should make no considerable progress. Naturally, then, he would consider the most graceful and advantageous manner of retiring and with that in view would reopen with the United States those exchanges which were broken off last summer.

From the outset President Wilson's Mexican policy has had steadily in view the restoration of peace on a substantial basis. His refusal to recognize Huerta, says an authoritative statement from Washington, was due not to any antagonism toward Huerta himself but to a clear knowledge of the fact that the revolutionist would never be reconciled to a man who had overthrown Madero. "Recognition to anyone set up in the presidency without some popular expression," the semi-official utterance continues, "or without the indorsement of all factions could not lead to peace."

The elimination of Huerta will go far toward making possible an orderly settlement of the present Mexican problem. It would open the way toward an agreement between factions. It might result in the selection of a provisional president who would be acceptable to all parties and to whom the United States could consistently lend its moral and diplomatic support. That accomplished, hostilities in the field would cease, and there would be breathing time in which the troubled republic could take quiet, serious thought of its future.

It is much to be hoped that the reported conferences between Mr. Lind and a representative of Huerta are a fact that they will result fruitfully.

Showing Up Atlanta.

The appeal, voiced through The Journal, for a city-wide cleaning to make Atlanta look her brightest for the Shrine convention in May has won instant and cordial response.

The Chamber of Commerce, the women's clubs and hundreds of individual citizens have pledged the movement earnest support. The municipal government will lend its assistance at every possible point.

In this spirit of energetic co-operation, every Atlanta property owner and citizen should shoulder his particular share of public responsibility. Lawns, gardens, houses, shops, office buildings, highways and alleys, residence districts and business should be made to glisten with the freshness of springtime itself.

Such work will be an investment for good health and also for the good opinion of some forty thousand visitors from every corner of America.

Editorials in Brief

Washington has started a new national slogan: "Prevent the fly." By the time it gets to Boston, it will be "Obviate the Musca domesticus."—Philadelphia North American.

What Senator La Follette calls the President's "policy of silence" in regard to the Mexican situation is naturally offensive to the Wisconsin statesman. It is the personal practice of the Senator in the frequent emergencies in which he is moved to speech to reveal to the public more than he knows and a good deal that is unfounded in fact.—New York World.

Three Years of the Drama League

THE Drama League of America is celebrating its third birthday. The review in Drama of the league's career by its president, Mrs. Best, shows how this body suggests comparison with plans for state-aided drama. It is not merely a discriminating agency, but an active force in the encouragement of good plays. Founded on the idea of avoiding bad plays by getting skilled judgment of them, the league has come to have something of the group's power to create what it wants. Standing for the demand for better written, better produced drama, it helps thus to insure the supply. It does not believe in the artificial maze to get what it wants, inasmuch as helter-skelter theater going gives the people small voice. The league also distrusts popular taste itself, and insists upon a clearer understanding than most have of the difference between Galsworthy and Veiller. It tries to form a coherent group large enough to demand attention, and to support those higher stage ventures often looked upon as precarious.

"Take up the cultured man's burden," is a dreaded cry nowadays, and the league's progress is the more creditable in that it has had to make head against it. Its 90,000 members, scattered through every state, constitute in thirty-five of the largest American and Canadian cities, units of genuine influence, while a co-operative branch is being formed in England. Its officials, from university professors to business men, are well known. An education department reaches libraries, colleges, high schools, and a great many children, and in certain country and city districts paid workers are organizing amateur dramatics. Its co-operation with a publishing house in issuing inexpensive plays—ten now planned. But its main work is in establishing circuits through the smaller cities, by binding several hundred or a thousand people to take tickets to half a dozen better plays than they could otherwise secure. Companies for one-night stands may be carried from coast to coast on the assured support of a series of towns, while a national taste is being formed on which managers desirous of raising standards may depend. The members should reap the double benefit of being kept in literary touch with the theater, and—where they live in the larger cities—being spared the practical vexation of experimenting on performances. Chicago last year had 150 plays; 100 were musical comedies, and, therefore, not considered; of the other fifty, sixteen were approved and bulletined. If the bulletins were taken as even a partial guide, thousands of hours and dollars must have been saved. The league says nothing of unapproved plays; and so long as its field is short, silence cannot be construed as condemnation.

This promising organization will plainly count for little that all should be enlightened and responsive. A year ago Walter Pritchard Eaton found western members (chiefly women) enthusiastic in attending meetings, but laggards in attending plays. The latter cost money; recommendations often run counter to this of that critic, or this or that neighbor; many liked the sense of belonging to the organization, but were indifferent to its work. Possibly, this has changed, for Mrs. Best reports the word of certain managers that receipts swell on the first favorable bulletin, and of others that approval has saved some plays. The judgment of the league differs from that rendered by the press, which criticises by different standards, for a larger audience, and to a more impersonal purpose. Yet when given by a system of committees in the few cities in which first performances occur, it can be accepted implicitly by its supporters. The league relies on the undoubted fact that to most educated theatergoers a flat verdict from a source that inspires personal confidence is more effective than an anonymous opinion. It tries, moreover, to create a ticket-buying patronage by common-sense means, not elevating the theater above the audience, not cultivating the "problem" drama, but supporting wholesome comedy, farce and melodrama alike, if only they are good of their kind. While its influence may always safely be asserted upwards, it has to reflect that in the present looseness of touch between the public and the stage, errors of taste or too great conservatism would be fatal.

The significance, less of the league and similar organizations, such as those active in this city, than of a larger impulse behind them, is two-fold. The dramatic production of the last half century in Europe and America has cosmopolitan qualities, and so transcends national lines that it is the common property of every stage. Granting practical difficulties, it is deplorable that more of the outstandingly meritorious in all this build should be often not represented. Thus Chicago, in one of whose suburbs the league originated, has a little theater that has found a public ready to crowd to Murray's translations of Euripides and Synge's Irish comedies, Masefield and Sudermann. Hand in hand with this goes the new yearning manifested in small places. The theater as it now exists is too purely metropolitan. The opportunity of inferior plays to scour the country bandit-like and hold up the smaller cities, hungry to see anything and only half-conscious that the modern stage "has such a scope to show her pride," has had too few checks. When this hunger organizes itself, and presses its wishes home to the centers of play production, the second-rate play may be exposed to a healthier and stronger competition.—New York Evening Post.

Commends The Journal's Stand

(Asheville (N. C.) Citizen.

The Citizen does not pretend to pass on the guilt or innocence of Leo Frank, but it certainly believes that he ought to have a new trial, if all the conditions existed at the time of the first hearing, as set forth by The Atlanta Journal, are correctly reported.

If Frank is guilty no punishment is too severe for him; no punishment can fit the crime, but the state of Georgia certainly owes it to itself and to its people to see that Frank is not hanged until he has been found guilty by a judge and jury wholly free from the menace of prejudice and vengeance. The publishers and newspapers that have interested themselves in this case are not asking for Frank's acquittal. They are only demanding that there be a fair trial and legal proof of guilt.

Quips and Quiddities

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, once told this story to a friend:

"I was coming down the elevator of the Stock Exchange building, and at one of the intermediate floors a man whose face I know as well as I know yours got in. He greeted me warmly at once, said it was a number of years since we had met, and was friendly and gracious, but I couldn't place him for the life of me. I asked him as a sort of feeler how he happened to be in New York, and he answered, with a touch of surprise, that he had lived there for several years. Finally I told him in a way that showed that I didn't recall his name. He looked at me for a moment and then he said quietly that his name was U. S. Grant."

"What did you do, Joe?" my friend asked.

"Do?" he replied with a characteristic smile. "Why, I got out at the next floor for fear I'd ask him if he had ever been in the war!"

Efficiency was the topic that was being discussed at a gabfest in a Washington club the other night, when Congressman John G. Rothermel, of Reading, was reminded of the declaration of an esteemed party named James.

The aforesaid James attended a circus some time since, where one of the big features of the show was a beautiful lion her act minimized, for no ring, followed by the lion, the fair charmer placed a lump of sugar between her pretty lips, which the lion took from her with his teeth. Instantly James sat upright and began to take notice.

"Great stunt, all right," he loudly shouted to the performer, "but I can do it, too!"

"Of course," scornfully replied the girl, who didn't appreciate having her act minimized, "but do you really think you can?"

"Most assuredly," was the prompt rejoinder of James, "just as well as the lion."

DEVELOPMENT OF ALASKA

By Frederic J. Haskin

With a gold pen whose handle was an Alaskan mastodon tooth more than 50,000 years old, there was signed at the Alaska railroad bill which will open that sealed vault of great wealth to the world. Alaska, as a storehouse, should be unlocked, said the president in his special message to congress, and a sharp outline in the development of the American continent will be the story of the tusk of an ancient Alaskan mammal transformed into the twentieth century key that threw wide the portals to the hidden riches of the richest undeveloped treasure house far exceeding the fabulous possessions of Croesus.

The act directs the president of the United States to build not more than 1,000 lines of railroad in Alaska, at a cost not to exceed $35,000,000. It is essentially the measure drawn up and introduced into the house of representatives by James Wickersham, delegate from Alaska, a duplicate of which was simultaneously presented to the senate by Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon. The only important change was the elimination of the clause which provided for the issuance of a bond issue. The money will be appropriated year by year by congress and in this way the cost of interest and other charges incident to bonding will be saved. This is the method followed in part in financing the Panama canal project, only a portion of the authorized bonds ever being offered for sale. The friends of the measure would have felt safer had the full $35,000,000 been provided for in a single authorized bond issue, but they anticipate no difficulty in inducing congress to provide funds as they are needed.

Full authority and responsibility are vested in the president, as in the Panama act. He will name the line or lines to be built, approve surveys, type of construction, quality of material, select his own assistants; the railroads provided for in a single act, have the last word in everything pertaining to the proposed railroad. It is expected that the secretary of the interior will be the cabinet officer personally charged with the administration, just as the secretary of war has been the presidential agent in the construction of the Panama canal. Going further, it is quite possible that one technical expert actually on the job will have powers equal to those exercised on the big ditch by Colonel Goethals. Who this man will be, and whether he will be chief engineer, or chairman of a commission or both, is a matter of the future.

• • •

The use in the Alaska project of engineers of the army and navy, or of any other branch of the federal government, is authorized by the act, and congress directs that all available machinery, plant, and materials now in use on the canal zone shall be transferred to Alaska as it is no longer needed at Panama. The Isthmian canal commission is authorized to take credit for everything so delivered at a percentage fixed by the president, but this amount is not to be charged against the fund provided for in the act. In this way will be served the double purpose of utilizing a goodly portion of the expensive equipment soon to be useless at Panama, and of giving almost immediate assistance to the far northern experiment.

The sum of $1,000,000 is made available at once by the new law and preliminary work will be begun as soon as possible. In fact, tentative plans have already been made. The line to be initiated is to connect with one or more of the open Pacific ocean harbors on the southern coast of Alaska with the navigable waters in the interior, and with such coal fields and agricultural sections as will in time develop adjacent territory. In other words, temperate Juneau, the capital, will shake hands with icy Fairbanks, and the rich Tanana valley within the Arctic circle will no longer be a remote inland empire hidden away from the rest of the world.

Secretary Lane expects that between four and five years will be required to have approximately 1,000 miles of railroad open for business. Construction will go on at both ends at the same time, eventually meeting at some central terminus. There will be no experiment in the construction of these government railroaders, but it must be remembered that the greater part of the project must be carried on under climatic conditions that permit of but six months work a year. At the present time there are 1,116 miles of line in the privately owned railroads in Alaska. Some of these may be bought outright if the government cares to do so, or they can be paralleled, or wholly ignored. Some of these little independent railroads will not be needed at all because they are maintained by private corporations to develop their own mines. The railroads there now are Alaska Northern Railway company, Cooper River and Northern railway, the Tanana Mines railway, the White Pass and Yukon railway and the Dawson railway. An automobile company operates in opposition to the Tanana line from Fairbanks to the mines, a distance of forty-five miles.

The construction and operation by the federal government of all necessary telephone and telegraph lines are authorized by the Alaska railway bill. Later these may be leased wholly or in part, as the president may see fit. Full power is also given the chief magistrate or his duly designated assistant to withdraw, reserve or otherwise dispose of as much public land, wherever found, as may be needed for rights of way, terminals, etc. The act further demands that all land patents made over to private persons or corporations in the future shall reserve to the United States 100 feet on either side of the center line of the railway that it might choose to run through the land, and twenty-five feet on either side of the center line of any telephone or telegraph lines.

All this takes the national government into the business of building, owning and operating railways, telephones and telegraphs. It is a small venture, but its effect on the future control of our vast networks of transportation lines and wires of communication may be great. By the government ownership principle the comparative ease in which the bill passed both houses of congress is regarded as a reflection of the temper of the people. However, the bill empowers the president to lease any of the lines, or all of them, together with the telegraph or telephone systems, wholly or in part, to private parties. He may agree to terms on his own initiative, but no lease shall be for more than twenty years. All private railroads that may be confiscated will be paid for at the physical valuation only. Whenever, if ever, any government railroad or telegraph or telephone line should be leased to private parties it will at once be under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

To authorize such an ambitious proposition as the Alaska government railways without providing means to release the immense coal deposits the lines will tap, would be the height of folly. Consequently, there is every likelihood of the early passage of an Alaskan coal land leasing law in some form. That introduced by Representative Ferris provides, in effect, for the leasing of the coal lands of the territory to individuals or corporations in areas not to exceed 2,560 acres in each case, and payments to the government of 2 cents for every ton of coal mined by them. Coal companies claim that 2,560 acres is too small an area upon which to operate a coal mine with profit in the United States proper. This is because they must dig down several hundred feet to find a small strata of coal, but in Alaska the deposits are compact almost to the surface of the land. Under such circumstances 2,560 acres in Alaska are equivalent to 10,000 acres in the coal fields of Illinois, Indiana or Kentucky, it is believed.

Alaska was bought from Russia for $7,200,000 in 1867. To date nearly $400,000,000 has been taken out of it. Fully one-third has not even been explored, and barely the surface of the rest has been touched. The gold returns run from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 per annum. The fisheries come next with an average of $10,000,000. There are over 12,000 square miles of coal land, and no human can estimate the billions of tons that lie buried there. The need of tapping these great deposits at once is great, for the citizens of the territory now pay out nearly $500,000 annually for coal shipped to them from the United States or Canada. Prof. Alfred H. Brooks, a geologist who knows more about Alaska coal than any living man, is reported to have estimated that the government loses an equal amount every year by not being able to have a naval coal base on Resurrection bay and then use Alaskan coal.

Language of Cows

"It's a gift," said Carl Lynn, the remarkable animal mimic, when called upon at St. George's hall. "Animal mimics, I suppose, are like poets; they are born not made. Ever since I was a toddling mite on a Yorkshire farm it has come natural to me to imitate the noises made by the animals you see round a farmhouse. It's a gift that runs in the family, too, for I have a little baby girl of my own now who is very fond at it. Her mother and I only stop her when she gives a realistic imitation of a pig. We don't want our only child to grow up ugly.

"My people were cattle breeders, and this gave me a fine opportunity to study the language of cows.

"It's a useful gift, you know, over and above the fact that I earn my living by it. When I was a youngster working for my father in the cattle market I taught our cows to advertise themselves. If a cow is in bad health, it keeps silent, only mooing when it feels at peace with the world. Naturally cattle buyers know this. Every time a likely looking customer passed our pen I would talk softly to the animals and make them answer back in their loudest note, thereby attracting the attention of the prospective purchaser.

"Not long ago I was strolling along a rural lane in the Isle of Man with Kilkie Bard and Alec Kendall, the well known comedians, when we came across a bull roaring in a field. The climax would have been worrying it badly. 'Try your art on that,' said Kendall, and I obliged. It is my private opinion that three unhonored sprinters shattered the 100-yard record that afternoon for the gate of the field happened to be open and that bull came tearing down the road after us like a cyclone. Fortunately the gates of other meadows were closed, or the entertainment world would have lost at least one ornament.

"Although perhaps I am most successful with cows there are no domestic animals I cannot have a chat with, and I have spent many hours at the zoo studying the language of the lower animals. Some of the London zoo I put one of the kings of the forest in such a good humor that the keeper allowed me to put my hand through the bars and tickle it. Nice old thing that lion; he enjoyed being tickled as much as a cat does.

"Cats, I am afraid, don't appreciate me. They always scamper off to me when I 'miaow' to them, and they seem deeply interested in my opening sentences, answering me back in the approved housetop style, but they soon become offended, and retreat indignantly never returning to show off their powers.

"Some people think my ability to attract pigs away from their feeding trough is the most remarkable thing about me. I learned the secret in my boyhood days, for we had several hundred pigs on the farm. By the way, do you know that pigs are given plenty of cheap coal to eat? It makes the meat white when they are killed and cooked."

Throughout the interview Mr. Lynn had been breaking forth into barks, yelps, roars, grunts, and "miaows," every imitation so lifelike that we might have been in a menagerie.—London Tit-Bits.

Every Town Needs Cleaning

Even if you live in a well known town there is much that can be done this spring to make it still more attractive. Work that you do with trees, shrubs, grass and the garden back in your alley will increase the value of your property and give you a good appetite. . . .

"For village improvement to be most successful the city government and the private citizens must co-operate," says M. F. Ahearn, assistant professor of horticulture at the Kansas agricultural college. "Let the city council, the park board, the city engineer, the municipal government, offer prizes for the best appearing lawn and the lawn showing the greatest improvement in looks. Garden contests should be started and the producers selling his products. Get every one interested in the work. Try to develop a community spirit and make each citizen feel that his aid is essential in carrying out the plans for the betterment of his home locality.

"Have a 'clean-up' day to begin with. Get the people interested in keeping the streets and especially the alleys clean. Dirty alleys breed flies and disease. Plant shrubs and trees and sow grass seed in the parkings. Prune the trees and fight the ten cater-pillars and other troublesome insects and tree diseases. Doctor those trees that are injured. Houses should be painted and the building of cement walks and paving of streets started.

"A village improvement society can be organized to look after the different phases of the work. Encouraging the better cultivation of flowers, fruits and vegetables will be one of its duties. The society can give an annual flower show and demonstrate the artistic possibilities of each flower. Lectures given by the organization will be useful, also. A great deal can be done in cleaning up and beautifying the school grounds, and when Arbor day comes let it be observed by planting some properly selected shade trees, the work to be under municipal control instead of being done wholly by individual land owners."—Kansas Industrialist.

When the Earth Is Full

With a happy obliviousness regarding other matters that many are worrying about, a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette has been figuring on what folks will do when the world is filled up—that is to say, when it reaches a figure in population that the products of the earth will be taxed to the limit to support.

According to one calculation, this maximum population will consist of 6,000,000,000 persons, assuming that the fertile regions can support 20 persons to the square mile, while the less arable tracts will give food for 14 inhabitants to the square mile. Based on the present mean rate of increase in population, which is placed at 8 per cent for each decade, there will be 5,994,000,000 people in the year 2072, or only 158 years from now.

Through figures long since furnished by Sir John Herschel, it is further shown that had there been only two persons on the earth 3,000 years ago, and had that number doubled 100 times—once in every thirty years—and had only natural death taken place, those living today would stand shoulder to shoulder and on each other's heads, and then cover the sea and land, and reach out 100 times beyond the orbit of the planet Neptune.

This is rather uninteresting, perhaps, to the lay reader. Yet it is not without its application to certain vexed questions of the day. The fact that we don't reach out beyond the orbit of Neptune" is probably due to easily ascertainable causes, such as intelligence another, famine still another. Too much eating and too much drinking may also help to explain. The lack of a general movement in the dark ages may also have something to do with it. Or, anyhow, we are merely a pitfling 1,500,000,000, or thereabout; and lumping the living skeleton with the fat woman, and counting the rest, we have the entire population that could stand within the confines of the District of Columbia without holding hands. If you don't believe this, work it out for yourself.

Fortunately for the future, the problem will doubtless adjust itself in accordance with natural laws. These have been active in the past, and will not cease in time to come. Conservation and so-called waste proceed side by side. Economy is a matter of opinion, hence altogether relative. There are unknown areas of land in the United States after 300 years of white occupation. At the same time, 4,000,000 live in New York City, and wonder how any one could be happy elsewhere. Furthermore, Thomas Edison proposes to obtain ammonia by passing nitrogen and hydrogen over red hot iron, and thus obtain an inexhaustible supply of fertilizer, which will make even the desert blossom as the rose. On the whole, the future is assured. Apparently the only blessing from which posterity will be debarred is the tango.—Washington Post.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY DR. MARION McH. HULL.

The leaders of the Jews had objected to the views and practices of Jesus with regard to the Sabbath, and had carried it so far, as we saw in our last lesson, that they did not want healing to come to a woman who had been ill for eighteen years, because Christ chose to heal her on the Sabbath day. The people as a whole did not share the views of these leaders. Their evil influence permeated the life-giving truth like the corrupting leaven does the meal. This attitude called forth from Jesus the parables of the mustard seed and of the leaven. In passing, let me say that these two parables are frequently misunderstood, applying Jesus' own interpretation to the birds of the air in Matthew 13, and to the leaven in Matthew 16, both represent evil influences. The mustard seed represents the external growth of the church until it grows beyond its purpose, and becomes the resting place for corrupting influences. Do we not see today everything under heaven trying to get lodgement in the branches of the church? Recently one lady even wanted to pay her bridge whist dues through the Ladies' Aid society! Everywhere the Bible, without exception, the leaven is the type of sin, and the parable teaches the corrupting influences of evil doctrine, not that the gospel will gradually pervade the world.

SELF DECEIVED.

This teaching of Jesus called forth the question of some one in the company, "Lord, are there few that shall be saved?" Jesus did not answer categorically yes or no, but commanded them, "Strive to enter in at the straight gate; for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When once the Master of the house is risen up, and hat shut the door, and ye begin to stand without and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and He shall answer and say unto you, I know ye not whence ye are; then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. But He shall say, I tell you, I know ye not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity." No doubt His words were inspired by the lives of the leaders of the people. They undoubtedly thought themselves righteous. If they not attend to all of their religious duties with punctiliousness? Did they not take the uppermost seats in the synagogues? Did they not observe all the law of the Talmud? Did they not wear the proper garb? Were they not accounted by the people as the leaders of the church?

But all this did not make them righteous before God, and in the end the day should come that they asked for entrance, He, as the Master of the house, would say to them, "I know not whence ye are."

I wonder if we have been deceiving ourselves. For He said that "Not everyone that sayeth unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Mere profession of our faith does not save us. "But he that doeth the will of my Father," this is what is necessary. What is the will of our Father? This, that we believe in Him whom He hath sent, Jesus Christ, His only begotten Son, and should show our faith by doing the things that Christ did, living the life that He lived, submissive to His Father's will, and filled with mercy toward His fellow men.

SURPRISES.

And Jesus continued by telling them that there would be many surprises in the last day, for when they see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and see the Jews to whom it was speaking cast out—this will be their first surprise. Their next surprise would come when they would see the heathen come from the east and west and north and south and sit down in the kingdom of God. The Jews at that time were a very exclusive people. They regarded everyone who was not of Israelitish race a heathen dog. They thought their descent from Abraham sufficient, and all sufficient, and could not for a moment imagine their surprise at these words of Jesus.

But let us not condemn them too hastily. There are so-called Christians today who are going to be surprised. I will have nothing to do with others whose circumstances are different from these. Unless our attitude and our attitude they shall be greatly surprised to find people of many colors and from every social stratum sitting under blessings which they thought were their own, and they themselves cast out.

These warnings should make us all make us examine our hearts very closely. And yet everyone will answer at this calling Him Lord and not doing His will? Do I feel myself better and more worth saving than the man of another race, or a fellow who is down and out? Let us not be self-deceived. And then we shall not be surprised. But let us know that there is no ground of hope for those who are without Christ, and that to have Him in such a way as to have hope is for Him to have me wholly. Will you let Him have you thus? If so, you need have no fear whatever. Whether there be many or few who will be saved, I shall not be one of those under these circumstances, and under no other circumstances can you be one of them.

International Meeting This Summer at Berne, Switzerland, Now Assured

Christian leaders of America, interested particularly in peace problems, are replying to the Swiss churches that they favor, with them, the holding of a world peace congress in Berne this summer. Not long since the evangelical churches of Switzerland sent out an invitation to the churches of Europe to attend such congress, and to give an answer not later than April 1. Soon afterward the invitation was extended to this country. It is learned that so general has been the response that the congress is certain to be held. The fixing of the date rests with Swiss churches, but it is known that an American delegation of good proportions will attend.

Swiss leaders charge that churches have not done their duty in the past in protesting as they ought against war. They figure that Europe will spend, in 1914, $4,000,000,000 because of war conditions that prevail. Later that 5,000,000 men are idle. They say that 200,000 men in prime of life were cut down in the Italian war, mentioning crippled men, and destroyed properties. To call this a civilized age, a Christian age, observe Swiss ministers, in the light of such facts, "is an insult to the name of Christ," say they.

The plan of the congress is not one of protest, not one to register the views of Christians on war, but to get down to exact methods by which the influence of churches of Europe and America can be brought to bear directly upon government officials to cause them to put an end to present conditions. The other part of the plan is to publish literature that will cause the peoples of all nations to rise and declare that war must cease, and that the vast expenditures of money and men must stop. The congress is to be attended by officials of the churches, not by volunteers. So far as heard from every official of every important religious body in America favors the congress.

SALVATION ARMY PLANS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Will Spend Nearly $3,000,000 on New Buildings and Land in United States

In various parts of the country the Salvation Army is preparing to spend, almost at once, $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 on new buildings and land, chiefly the former and the larger centers of population. This expenditure is greater than the entire assets of the army at the time Commander Eva Booth took charge.

In Covington, Ky., at a cost o f$200,000 and in Detroit at a cost of $75,000 new buildings for women's training schools in domestic science. In Cleveland is a Martha Washington home for girls that is costing $50,000, and in Pittsburg an industrial home, rescue hall, and general army building costing $500,000.

In New York and Chicago are to be erected the Booth Memorial Training schools that will cost $500,000 each. Sites are to be purchased at once, and in New York the commissioner has the money for buildings is to be entered upon next fall. It is likely the Chicago building will be helped from New York, and that the Chicago campaign will follow immediately the New York one. In Chicago there is also being erected a girls' domestic science home and hotel to cost $200,000. The home part of the hotel will be for working women, and it is for girls earning $5 a week or less. In New York tentative plans have been drawn for a home for girls whose wages are $5 or less, and the building of it awaits only the decision of a site. Farms are under consideration. In California the army is negotiating for property on which to build 75,000. The farms are for boys who are to be sent to them from the crowded parts of large cities.

COMMERCE TO BUILD NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

COMMERCE, Ga.—A congregational meeting was held in the Commerce Presbyterian church yesterday morning for the purpose of devising ways and means for the erection of another Presbyterian church at this place. Reports submitted to the congregation by a committee who has previously been appointed for the purpose of raising necessary funds with which to complete the church, showed money in sight to authorize the making of a contract for the immediate completion of the edifice. The church will meet with the ladies of the Commerce church about the middle of April, and it is the purpose of the members of the local church here to entertain their church building time to entertain the visitors in the building.

Railroad men are especially requested to attend as the subject of Dr. Walker's railroad circles will be cordially welcomed.

Revival at Cordele

CORDELE, Ga., March 16.—One of the greatest revivals this city has ever experienced is now in progress at the Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. Walter Anthony, is being assisted by Rev. Martin Williams, of the North Georgia conference, who has delivered some very stirring and powerful sermons.

The large auditorium of the new Methodist church has been filled to overflowing by the throngs attending the meetings and as many as 200 people have been turned away. The revival is now in progress for a little more than one week and one hundred members have been added to the church.

Cold Weather Prevents Game At Ponce Today

After Consultation, Manager Joe Birmingham and Billy Smith Decide to Call Off Contest—Next Game Tuesday With Newark Club, of the International League

Owing to the fact that old Sol failed to report on the job with sufficient vigor this morning, Manager Joe Birmingham and Bill Smith, after a short consultation, decided that it would hardly be advisable to play the game scheduled at Ponce de Leon this afternoon. Ph ye advised, therefore, fans, that there will be nothing doing in the local ball yard until further notice.

In fact, the next real activities at Ponce de Leon will start up on Tuesday afternoon, when Harry Smith brings his Newark club, otherwise known as the Dodger, Jrs., here for two games. The Newark crew is now in Macon, where they are batting with George Stallings' Braves. Smith won the pennant with his club last season, and will bring one of the best minor league clubs in the country to tackle the Crackers. Bill Zimmerman, formerly a member of the Crackers, is one of the bunch.

In the meantime, both the Crackers and the Naps are taking things easy for a couple of days. The latter will stay ove rhere until Sunday, when they return to Athens for another stretch of practice in the Classic City. They return here April 1 for a series of two games.

Aviators Propose Passenger Service

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—A regular hydro-aeroplane service between this city and Oakland will be inaugurated soon and the state board of harbor commissioners approved today the establishment of a terminal station here for this service.

Aviators Weldon Cooke and L. Y. Lekas announce that they will make half hourly trips between this city and Oakland during the day.

The hydro-aeroplanes, each of which is capable of carrying three passengers, are on their way here from the east and the service is expected to begin within a month.

Aiken Poloists Defeat Camden

Old Cotton Knuspp is stirring things up down in Pelicantown in such a way that Pel fans are wondering how it ever happened that the tow-headed Texan was ever allowed to leave the city of dykes a few years ago. Boston Braves Trim Newark

Hub Perdue's Hurling in First Three Innings Was Feature. Weather Too Cold

MACON, Ga., March 21.—The weather was too cold here Friday for fast ball playing and in a seven-inning contest the Boston Nationals won from Newark by a score of 5 to 3.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Perdue, who retired the Newark man in one-two-three order in the first three innings. n the fourth, however, Perdue walked Witter, who was forced at second by Tooley. W. Zimmerman hit to Evers, who instead of trying for an easy double, tossed to first and retired the batsman. Tooley then scored on Myers' single.

That's what I gave you," shouted Evers to the Newark player when he came in from the field.

Duchesnil, who relieved Perdue in the fifth, did well until the seventh, when he gave up three hits for two runs, the French pitcher permitting one of these by failing to back up the catcher on a throw from left field.

Connolly and Whaling of the Boston team obtained two hits each. Evers took in six chances at second. G. Schmidt, the Boston first baseman, fainted at he beginning of the game and was carried to his hotel. Erhard covered the first bag during the game.

Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston.....5	7	0
Newark.....3	4	1

Perdue, Duchesnil and Whaling; Bell, Holmes and O'Rourke.

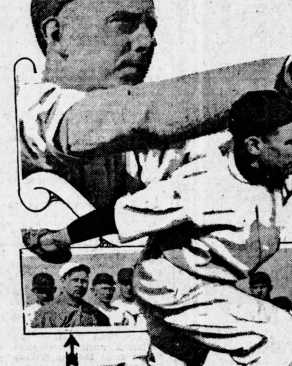
FULLERTON PICKS MINER BROWN'S TEAM TO COP PENNANT IN THE FEDERAL LEAGUE



BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

MONROE, La., March 21.—Mordecai Brown has gained a big advantage over several of the Federal league managers already. The first glimpse of the St. Louis Federals in their training camp shows that Brown is making a wise start.

At Shreveport, where I looked over Tinker's Chicago team, the field was cluttered up with semi-pros, minor leaguers and real ball players. Tinker has too many men. It is going to be difficult to let them go and worse to keep them.

The Feds owe something to every player they try and must keep faith with them. Brown saw this difficulty afar off. He has chosen only such men as he is certain he can use.

Tinker's team has more strength on paper just now. Brown is in better technical position. He needs a second baseman, a third baseman, an outfielder and a pitcher. He is after them.

I was delighted with the manner in which Brown has taken hold of his team. He was Chance's best assistant while the Cubs were winning pennants. He is much after Chance's style, save he is less likely to fly off the handle.

Brown has a corking training quarters, one of the best in the south. Tinker has the hotel, Brown has the grounds, the bath facilities and appliances, a place to work indoors and all the adjuncts of a real major league training camp.

His team in the field compares favorably with the major league teams I have seen in action. Three experienced catchers make a fine foundation for a club, Brown has Mike Simon, Pittsburg's second-string catcher: Hartley from the Giants, a promising man of experience and ability, and Chapman' who was with the Cubs once.

The pitching staff will give some one a lot of argument. Brown will lead it. He is in great shape this spring. He has a pitcher coming from the American league who will be the star of the aggregation. Bob Groom is there, a wise and clever fellow. He is eager to work his head off for Brown's success. Otie Crandall, Mr. Gray's great rescuer, is with him. Knepper, a left hander, who was with the Sloufeds last year, was so promising the major leagues were after him. Herbert, with Cincinnati last season, is promising. Jenney and Babcock, the last named a left hander, are Williams and Buschman, a tryout, fill the list, with Eddie Dillhoefer from the Tigers, to top it off.

Hugh Miller, from Montreal, will be first baseman, a corking man who can hit in slashing, solid fashion. Boucher, from Jersey City, will play second, at least until the National league star reports. Al Bridwell will be at short, and Mathes from Utica at third although Mathes and Boucher may change positions. Ward Miller, Kommers, who was one of the promised sensations of the National league with Pittsburg, and Del Pike from the present outfield, with Tobin as utility.

Fullerton Notes

BY FULLERTON.

Walt, Pittsburg's young catcher, is a life saver at St. Louis. They may use him in that capacity for the Pirates.

Of course, Murphy has been ousted, but when Hank O'Day wanted to cancel exhibition games we note who said, No."

Tinker is charitable. He is only going to release six of his players.

Jimmy Callahan is watching the work of his second team. He probably couldn't stand to watch the first any longer.

One remarkable feature of the baseball war is that those who are best posted as to the weaknesses of the Feds are from Boston, Cincinnati and towns in which they have no Fed club.

New Yorkers who died in 1913 left $1,000,000,000. So that is what they do with the money they borrow from visitors!

Cigars ruin more ball players than bad arms do, says Cy Young, who probably blames for his weakenig after twenty-six years of pitching.

The French are taking up baseball. They will probably challenge the umpire who calls them out and kiss him when he says, "Safe."

If this fellow Azvedo really wanted to fight, why did he come this side of the border?

Reporter—Can Heine play short? O'Day—Why can't he? Search us for the why.

PROBLEM.

If all the pajamas left in all the berths by all the ball players in America each season were made into one piece, how many Louie Comiskeys would it require to fill them?

Jim Gilmore isn't hard to please. He announces himself satisfied with the line-ups of the Fed clubs.

"Papa" Zim has been made a short stop. He will make another at the New York state line each time the Cubs go east this year, unless the situation changes.

WHY THEY DON'T WIN.

Secretary—Why don't you order the boys to run three times around the park?

Playing Manager—I might have to run with them.

Park League Well Started

Five Teams Apply to New Organization, and Other Amateurs Are Invited

Five fast amateur baseball teams have applied for membership in the Park Department league, now being organized, and any other teams desiring to enter the league are invited to attend a meeting in the park department office, fourth floor of city hall, next Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock.

The new league is being organized under the auspices of the city park department, at the instance of Park Manager Dan Carey. A committee consisting of Manager Carey, City Clerk Walter Taylor and the city hall reporters of the three Atlanta daily newspapers will undertake such assistance as the league may need from time to time, in the matter of rules and regulations, finances, publicity, etc. Manager Carey will recommend to the pary board that an appropriation be made from the playground fund for the park department to buy balls, bats and bases.

The prospects are that the league will be the fastest amateur organization in the city. Its games will be played on the diamonds in the various city parks. A penanant will be awarded the championship team, and trophies will be awarded the best hitter, best base runner, best pitcher, etc.

The above mentioned committee will undertake to arrange, for the close of the season, a "World's Series" of games between the pennant winning team of this league and the pennant winning team of a Bank Department league now being organized in Macon.

The five teams which have applied for membership in the league as are follows: Southern shops, Oakland City, Grant Park, Jonathans and Jones avenue.

Boys' High to Enjoy Banquet

The Ansley hotel will be the scene of a hilarious gathering tonight when the victorious Boys' High basketball team will be given a banquet by professors Phillips and Dykes of the Boys' High school are tendering the banquet to the members of the team as a token of their appreciation of the great showing that the team made in the local basketball league that has just ended.

Boys' High won eleven out of fourteen games played this year and won the pennant only after they had defeated Marist college and Donald Fraser in very sensational games.

The members of the team, who will attend the banquet tonight are Knox and Johnson forwards, Scott center, and Bauer, Loftin and Floyd guards. Each of the boys have invited a girl as a guest and the six couples are sure of a great time.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

By Innis Brown

Just four of the Southern league managers are figuring on strengthening up their clubs through the kindly help of B. Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Browns. Bobby Gilks is the latest pilot to invade the St. Petersburg camp. He announced on his return to Montgomery that he had practically closed the deal for three men. Already Managers Molesworth and Schwartz, and Secretary Coleson, of the Mobile club, have enlisted the aid of Rickey in mending their fences.

Judging from past records, Gilks should stand as good or better chance than any of the rest of landing some of Rickey's recruits. In past years, the Billikens have gotten a number of players from the Browns, and have also sent several of them. There are Derrill Pratt, Clyde Wares, Doc Wales, Roy Brown, Sloan and Williams, all of whom have passed between the two clubs. Now Gilks has already gotten Red Nelson, a twirler formerly with the St. Louisians.

Lookout fans are well pleased with the array of talent that Moose McCormick has proved for the 1914 campaign, except for the pitching corps. They point to the fact that the Moose has one of the best balanced teams that ever faced a barrier in the Southern league. His team will doubtless open the season with the following line-up: Coyle, first base; Flick, second base; Balsell, shortstop; Gillespie, third base; Johnson, Jacobson and McCormick, in the outfield; Street and Graham, catchers, with Floyd Kroh and Bill Sline as the two veteran hurlers.

Young Paul Fittery, the portside flinger, recalled last season by Manager Molesworth, of the Barons is creating a very favorable impression among fans and scribes of Slagtown in his showing to date. Fittery was farmed to Evansville by Molesworth last season, where he had a good season. He worked against the Louisville club a few days since and displayed a very pleasing repertoire against that band of maulers and Baron fans figure that he is due for a good season.

Besides the showing of Fittery, another bit of recent news has caused Baron stock to soar considerably. It is announced that Third Baseman Eddie McDonald would report to Molesworth. McDonald has been holding out, and it was feared that he might jump to the Federal league. He wired Molesworth that he would report, and the faithful fans of the Baron ever rooter for the Baron camp, Moley will hook him up all right.

Nashville has a rooky pitcher who says he always eats a rabbit foot when he pitches. He explains that once before pitching a game against a bunch of bush leaguers he killed a rabbit running with a rock, cut off its hind foot and tied it to his belt. He trimmed the bunch by a score of 4 to 3. Now he never figures on going into the box without his rabbit's foot.

Big John Cochran also did some healthy pounding on the ball in that same melee. Cochran hammered out three safe ones in four attempts, two of which were doubles. Also the former Appalachian league star scored two of his team's runs. Cochran has become very popular with Crescent City fans, and they are expecting great things of him this season.

It is understood that Mike Finn is angling for the services of Sterrett, the former Princeton star, who belongs to the Louisville Colonels. Finn has trafficked in catchers considerably thus far. He let Snell go to Nashville by the waiver route. He purchased Lavigne, who jumped to the Feds. He finally induced Harry Bemis to sign, after repeated threats to join the Federals, and now he is trying to land Sterrett. It is understood that Sterrett has not yet signed his, contract with the Colonels, which fact is no doubt holding up the deal.

June Dates Set For Polo Games

NEW YORK, March 21.—English polo players have become reconciled to June 6-13 as the dates for the international polo cup games, accprding to a letter received by William A. Hazard, secretary and treasurer of the polo association, from Major F. Edgerton Greene, manager of the Hurlingham, England club polo team.

Major Green's leter while expressing regret that an earlier date, which would have suited the English players much better, could not be fixed, anticipates a brilliant contest next June.

Restraining Order Halts Gessler in Macon Training Camp

LITTLE PAL---YES, HE CAN CHANGE HIS MIND

--BY LEO

Injunction Hits Doc Gessler at Boston Camp

Manager of Pittsburg Federals Visited Macon to Dicker With Hub Perdue and Wilson Collins, and Is Served With Restraining Order at His Hotel

MACON, Ga., March 21.—While "Doc" Gessler, former famous Boston American outfielder and now manager of the Pittsburg Federal league club was sitting in his room at a local hotel late Friday afternoon, talking he Pitcher Hub Perdue and Outfielder Wilson Collins, of the Boston National club, he was served with an injunction restraining him from approaching any Boston player under contract with a view to enticing him to the Federal league.

Gessler at first denied his identify, even to veteran Boston newspaper men but finally laughingly admitted it. He stated that he would take the first train out of Macon for Pittsburg. If so he will leave early tomorrow morning.

The serving of the restraining order was spectacular. Perdue had been phoned by Gessler to come to his hotel that "he wanted to talk with him." Perdue pitched four innings of the game with Newark today and then left the park with Collins. Some time later an attorney representing Manager Stallings of the Boston club burst into the room in company with a court official and served Gessler with the order. Gessler later replied when asked if the order had "stopped" him, "well it has made me hesitate a little all right."

Among Boston and Newark players the belief was general tonight that Gessler will be on hand tomorrow in Augusta when Newark plays Brooklyn. The injunction served here today is based on the Georgia contract labor law which forbids any employer from interfering with employes under contract to another man.

Two Ex-Champs Tied for Lead

NEW YORK, March 21.—At the conclusion of a strenuous week of twenty-one games in the national amateur billiard championship tournament here last night, two former national champions, Morris B. Brown, of Brooklyn, and Edward W. Gardner, of New York, were tied for first place, having won five out of six games each. They will play off the tie today.

J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, of New York, who holds the international championship title, captured third place, winning four games and losing two. Joseph Mayer, last year's champion, finished fourth, with three games won and two lost. He won the special prize for the highest average of the contest—19 1-21.

Charles Heddon, of Dowagiac, Mich., tied for fifth and sixth places with Dr. Walter H. Uffelmann, of Philadelphia, with two games won and four lost, and the only other competitor, Eugene L. Milburn, of Memphis, Tenn.

Hoppe too Good For Opponents

CHICAGO, March 21.—A new billiard game must be devised to put Willie Hoppe on an even footing with his nearest competitors, according to Tom Foley, who has arranged most of the championship matches in the west for some years. Foley today advocated a game in which the table would be divided into four equal oblongs by lines drawn from the center of each side and end parallel to the side and ends.

The rules would provide that one of the object balls must be driven across one of the dividing lines after each shot. Fine cushion play, he said, would be brought out by the scheme, and skillful placing of the balls would be a development of play.

Pittsburg Federals Are All at Camp

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 21.—With the reporting of George LeClair, formerly of the Montreal International league team, and Charles Hemphill, of the Boston Nationals, all of the players ordered to report to the Pittsburg Federal team here Friday were in camp. There are twenty-eight players in the squad. A snowstorm kept the men off the field today.

So, after all, why shouldn't Moran take a chance—so long as it's France and not U. S. soil that has to take care of the fumigating aftermath?

SEND CHICK OVER.

Chicago should forget about the Cubs and the Feds for a day or two and make arrangements to send Chick Evans over to join Jerry Travers and F. Ouimet. This would round out the greatest golfing invasion ever established, as America would then have her three greatest amateurs leading the Albion charge. Various reports have been circulated as to Evans' intentions, and we hope the last comes as a definite announcement that he will soon be on his way.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT.

While we are kept keyed up kidding the English in regard to sportive competition, there's still another side of it. England furnishes her finest sporting programs to crowds of 50,000 to 75,000 at from 25 to 50 cents a head. You can get a good seat there for a quarter—and take your pick for 50 cents. Fifty cents over here wouldn't get you close enough to the battlefield to lamp the outlines of the fracas with a Lick telescope in midseason form, the pink of condition and all the bally rest of it.

THO FIRST INTERNATIONAL.

England lost another big patch from her hide in the first 1914 international staged. Young Jay Gould sent America under way at top speed in the season's competition with the lion outclassed.

Gould's sweeping victory recalls again the wonderful lot of young talent which America has to offer in defense of her laurels. No other sporting age and no other nation has ever put forward such a crop of talent as that exemplified by Gould, Ouimet, Travers, McLoughlin and Williams.

The form reached by these young wonders is the triumph of specialization. Each one has practically given up the best part of his career to his particular game.

Gould has taken practically no part in sport except court tennis. Travers and Ouimet have never tackled any other field except golf. McLaughlin and Williams have given their careers to tennis. And the bunch of them have gone into each of their different sports so thoroughly and with so much zest that all were champions around twenty-one years of age.

NOT ALL SPECIALISTS.

Yet the charge that all American athletes are specialists is unfounded. How about Jim Thorpe? Thorpe is probably better at a greater number of sportive turns than any other athlete in history. Brickley, a football tar, made the Olympic team and goest in for baseball.

There are many others to add to this list. But the fact remains that those in the main who attain championship form give their best to but one sport. The entry who is Jack of all games rarely ever hits .300 in any.

There is no particular reason for Mr. Covey, of England, to be cast down over his defeat. As we understand it Mr. Gould is a combination of Ty Cobb, Frank Baker, Walter Johnson, Charley Brickley Sysonby and Monroe doctrine; in fact, practically a perfect stymie.

Competition among the nations is getting to be so keen in Sportville that one has to become a specialist to be a champion. All of which has nothing to do with ten or twelve of us who have no immediate prospects of attaining championship class.

TIP FOR MOVING PICTURE SCENARIO.

Some one beating Gould at court tennis.
Pitcher fanning Baker in tight spot of world series.
Brickley missing a field goal.
If there was any chance that Freddie Welsh and Willie Ritchie would ever get together before 1927, this clash might be added to the international box score. But at least two years of vaudeville and four more of burning oratory must be spilled before a start can be announced.

Cotton States League Will Not Disband

COLUMBUS, Miss., March 21.—President Flynn, of the Cotton States baseball league, announced last night that the league would not disband, as had been reported, but that at least a six team circuit would be maintained during the 1914 season. Corinth, Columbus, Meridian and Aberdeen, Miss., have secured franchises, according to Flynn, with Tupelo, Miss., and Jackson, Tenn., applicants for membership.

Jackets Meet Riverside Nine

Gainesville Cadets Come for First Game of Season This Afternoon—Game Called at 3:30

The crack prep team of the Riverside Military Academy will serve as opponents for Tech in the first game of the local college baseball season when they tackle the Jackets at Grant Field this afternoon. According to advance reports the cadets have a strong team this season as usual. Last year these youngsters turned out a team that would have been a credit to most college squads in this section. If they show the form displayed last year they should give the Jackets a merry frolic.

Coach Heisman has not announced any definite line-up for the Jackets, and in all probability he will make some substitutions during the fray. The Jacket coach admits that his boys have been hitting pretty well up to date in practice, although they have not been going against much curve pitching, since he has not allowed his pitching candidates to work at top speed. The Jackets expect to take the preps into camp, but appreciate the fact that they are tackling a game, spirited bunch. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

The Jackets are rounding into shape nicely, and if they can only get in one or two more days practice, they will be in fine shape for Auburn when the plainsmen come for the first real college game next week.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Boxing paid $38,781 into the treasury of New York state during the last year, according to the report of the state athletic commission, which regulates the sport under the Frawley law.

This was 5 per cent of the gross receipts, which amounted to $775,596. Since boxing was legalized in this state $1,294,796 has been paid by the fans to witness bouts and of this sum the state has received $95,759.86.

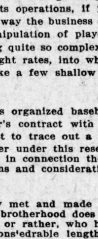
STRAY SHOTS AT SPORT TARGETS

By Hall Brown



RATHER PUZZLING.

The grand old game of baseball, nation-wide sport for the fan, livelihood for the player, and business proposition for the magnate, presents some rather far-reaching ramification, in its operations, if you care to follow out a few of details involved in the way the business end of it is handled, regarding thé transfer and manipulation of players' contracts. In fact we have never tackled anything quite so complex in its detail, unless possibly it is the matter of freight rates, into which we have at odd times, found it necessary to make a few shallow investigations.

Admittedly the backbone of baseball, that is organized baseball, today is the reserve clause, written in a player's contract with his club. It is a matter of more than passing interest to trace out a few of the transactions involved in handling a transfer under this reserve clause, together with the complexities that arise in connection therewith. Let's take a look at some of the conditions and considerations that come up in the traffic of contracts.

A few months since, the Players' Fraternity met and made certain demands of the National commission. This brotherhood does not include men who are still in the minor leagues, or rather, who have never been up to the major leagues for any consédrable length of time. Yet among other things demanded by the fraternity, was the following: That any player drafted or purchased by a major league, before he can be returned to a minor league of, we will say, Class A, must be offered to every club in leagues of Class AA, except such players as are drafted from a Class A club, who must first be offered back to the particular club in the league from which they were taken.

HOW IT HITS.

As a rule, there are always from two to three clubs in each Class AA and Class A league which depend on strengthening their teams by buying promising youngsters, who are not quite ripe for major league circles from the big fellows, when the latter begin to cut down. The Nashville club just now is a case in point. Owing to various causes, Bill Schwartz finds himself with less than half a ball club, being shy a second and third baseman, a couple of outfielders, and a good first string catcher.

Recently Bill put in a week or ten days with Manager Branch Rickey of the Browns at St. Petersburg. He looked over Rickey's youngsters carefully, and picked out several that he would like to have with his club. He may get them, and again he may not get all or any part of them. For instance, it is understood that he wants Catcher Joe Jenkins. Jenkins was drafted from Keokuk of the Three I league, a Class C circuit. In addition to the Browns no less than four other clubs in Class AA put in drafts for Jenkins. Now before Schwartz can get him for his club, each of the teams in Class AA, which put in a draft, must waive claim on him. Just off-hand we should say that Schwartz will have considerable trouble in acquiring the title to Jenkins' contract, unless some inside work is done by Rickey, with the other fellows.

In all probability the Players' Fraternity had in mind the welfare of its own membership only, when they made such a demand of the National commission, yet at the same time, it exerts an influence over the future of every youngster playing the game, who looks promising enough to be called up. It indirectly takes a hand in the affairs of every minor league club, below Class AA. Verily, the maneuvers of the office end of the great diamond game have it all over the much-touted intricacies of the game as it is played on the field, even by the most elaborate promulgator of systematic play.

However these matters are eventually thrashed out in some manner, and one club always wins a pennant in the end, and the others have their inning later, in telling how it might have been otherwise. So long as the home team wins, it is a great old game, handled under a perfectly satisfactory system, so why worry?

WHY WORRY?

Likewise, why get all wrought up, argue, and fall out with your neighbor over the question as to whether Speaker or Cobb is the highest salaried player in the game? Cobb still manages to ride around in his own high-power buzz wagon, play a few holes of golf, when he feels so inclined, and spend a few evenings each week home with the wife and kiddies. Besides salaries don't win ball games, and a hit figured in the monthly stipend at $49.68 will score as many runs as another which brings $50 in the bi-monthly pay check, provided the two are made under similar conditions.

A friend offers the following, which isn't so bad. Says he, "A minor can't walk much more than one mile, counting that the department store man has to offer, but the Snodgrass brand still holds the high record in baseball circles."

SYMPATHY.

We have an idea that Frank Chance, after trudging back to his hotel following a defeat of his club by a bunch of Texas leaguers, feels a more kindly appreciation of the lot that was Napoleon's after they whisked the most prominent Frenchman in history, next to Nap LaJoie, off to St. Helena. Possibly Chance feels that like all Gaul, the woes of handling the Yankees are divided into three parts—bad, worse and worst.

This is to apply as soon as Tillie Shafer signs his 1914 contract with the Giants. "The jingling of the guinea helps restore the color of the locks that Glaze the dome thereof."

We could hardly be called ardent admirers of Champion Willie Ritchie, but at the same time, we feel a kind of sense of satisfaction since he trimmed Ad Wolgast. Think of the grand double-cross he handed that inflated chorus of I-Told-You-Sos.

HERE'S THE REASON.

Lou Castro can unravel as many funny baseball yarns as any man in the land, and some of these are at his own expense. Here is one that he tells, and till is worth repeating.

Lou was summoned as an expert witness by the defense in the Frank trial. The purpose of his testimony was to show that it required a longer time to walk between two given points in the city than the case which the state was trying to make out supposed. After he had testified he was told to come down from the stand by the prosecution without cross-examination. As he passed, Attorney Hooper leaned over and made the following remark: "Now I know why you have quit baseball. You are too slow to move around, much less play ball."

Killifer Is Not Worried Over Injunction Suit

Philly Catcher, When Informed That Suit Had Been Filed, Announced That Te Would Retire From Baseball Before He Will Play With Federal League

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 21.—When informed Friday afternoon that application for an injunction to restrain Killifer form playing with the Philadelphia Nationals had been filed at Grand Rapids, Charles Dooin, manager of the club, acknowledged some surprise at the action, but stated that the move had been anticipated, and his course of action had been clearly outlined by legal counsel for the club.

"We have no fear whatever of losing Killifer and we expect Tom Seaton to return to the club before the season opens. We shall reply for an injunction restraining him from playing with the Federals in the near future. I understand he has joined the Chicago training squad at Shreveport, La."

Samuel W. Clements, attorney for the Philadelphia club, was in conference here last week with Dooin, President Baker, of the Philadelphia club and President Tener, of the National league, when a course of action was clearly planned in anticipation of the filing of a federal injunction, although the plans were not made public.

Killifer states that he will not play with the Federals, even should their injunction be granted and finally settled in their favor. "I will retire from the game first," stated Killifer, "but I do not anticipate the necessity for this, for I don't think the injunction will ever be served on me. I will work in the game here tomorrow, and will give them a chance to serve an injunction if they want to."

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Near month shorts were active buyers in the cotton market again early today, after opening steady, unchanged to 7 points higher, the last sold about 1 to 11 points net higher. There seemed to be little March or May for sale, and March increased its range to about 90 points over May, while July sold 29 points over July. Private cables attributed an east showing in Liverpool to Manchester selling. There was no change in southern spot advices.

There was continued covering by old crop shorts during the morning and the close was steady at a net advance of 11 to 12 points.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Miller & Co.: Until the March situation is cleaned up prices may be sustained but with this out of the way we look for a sharp break as the unfavorable factors will prove of greater influence.

Bailey & Montgomery: General trade does not appear to be improving at some what but we expect but the more bullish look of the old crop situation would encourage a fair buying and believe the sustaining influence of firm spot markets behind it.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 21.—No material confusing to show and indicate bad weather. Cloudy and cold over entire belt. Frost temperatures to-night. Indications are for rain and colder in the gulf coast districts. Rain or snow over the middle or upper part of the belt. Colder, possibly snow storms in Texas, both Louisiana and Arkansas.

Liverpool had a regular Saturday market, steady, but indifferent. Our market opened at unchanged figures with a disposition to advance and feeling bullish on the bullish supply situation, strong spots and bad weather. However, the bears' action in May and July New York showing considerable power of control checks support. The relative value and position of futures in New York is shown by March futures, which traded today above 13 cents in New York.

The great depression of May and July at 80 points under March and 100 to 120 points under the middling quotations, is difficult both to understand and to explain. The bullish supply situation can be believed at a glance. It is a fact that, according to the census, the total ginnings this season are 450,000 more than last season, but we started this season with the visible and invisible supply 730,000 more than last season. The satisfying power of this crop is smaller, so far this season, consumption has been running on a larger scale than last year.

The contract market continued to show a stubborn undertone and advanced slowly to the top for May. Resistance in New York seems to be gradually overcome by the pressure to cover shorts. Indications are for large exports and a large loss in stocks during the coming week.

Work That Should Be Done Early in the Spring

THERE is nothing more valuable than a garden of the different kinds of vegetables. They are usually enjoyed more when they are planted a little early and when they come a little out of season. It usually gives one more pleasure and they enjoy showing to the neighbors what they can do by having their garden early, and in addition it is just like raising chickens. The earlier one gets at these things the less trouble it is for them to accomplish what they desire.

There is a season for all things, and a garden planted at the right time and properly looked after will be lots less work to keep up with and produce better results than those that are planted out of season and during our dry hot summer months.

Everyone who can possibly do so should arrange to have pretty water in their garden, either with a hose or with one of the many irrigating lines of pipe stretched across the garden. You can then have vegetables out of season and during the hot months, when many others are deprived of this luxury. Water is the most essential thing in making all kinds of farm products grow, and it is surprising what results a person can get even from poor land with plenty water used at the right time, rather than fertilizer. It is really of just as much importance as rich land.

If more people would pay attention to their gardens, especially on the small vacant lots in the city and the suburbs it would have a telling effect at the end of the month in the grocery bill. There is nothing our papers can advocate, nothing our colleges and experiment stations give information connected with that would be more important than truck gardening, and it would probably help a larger mass of people to have a variety of healthy wholesome food gathered fresh every day from your own premises. A sense of duty, and it is probably as much as anything that can be done, simply by plenty work in the home garden.

A small garden, well worked and well cared for is far superior to a large one, and can be made to do these things a lot more. It is a mistake for a person to undertake too large a space for this wok, as you will have to hire labor or neglect some things. To keep a strict account of what can be accomplished on a space even 100 feet square planted in a variety of vegetables will surprise you as to how much they can raise or produce on a small space, and if it could be figured out on paper in proportion and the same amount of profit made off of large acres in proportion a person would figure themselves a millionaire before they knew it. It is best to start small, learn as you go, and in time to come many a good farmer and successful business man could be started on the road to success and prosperity with your children by teaching them how to do these things at home with a small city garden. It is a question that we should take up and study more carefully and more people be interested in than at present.

By all means plant you a small garden as soon as possible and you will not regret it.

Yours very truly,

Building Permits Take Another Spurt With $30,000 Worth Issued Today—Marietta Street Lease Renewal—Talks on Loans, Income Tax, Shriners' Convention, Decatur's Progress and Other Subjects at Realty Luncheon

Building permits took a further spurt today, when $30,000 worth were issued. This puts March so far about $100,000 ahead of the corresponding period last year.

The figures up to and including March 19 this year were $306,000, against $232,231 in the same period of 1913.

The total value last March was $435,000, with an application for a $50,000 permit not yet included in this month's business, and with this, and today's business, and a normal business for the balance of this month, last March's record will be surpassed.

Among today's permits was one of $18,000 for the W. D. Luckie lodge in West End, and one of $10,000 for ten houses which C. L. Hyes will build on East Merritt's avenue.

LEASE RENEWAL.

REALTY LUNCHEON TALKS.

The meeting of the Atlanta real estate board yesterday was a most interesting one, and several instructive talks were made.

Walker Dunson, of Dunson & Gay, said that there had been more loan activity in Atlanta in the past six months than in months previous. He declared that the insurance companies had accepted many applications and that private funds were more plentiful than for some time past.

Eugene S. Kelly, who has made a special study of the provisions of the income tax, discussed this feature with the real estate men. Mr. Kelly explained, however, that real estate agents would not be required to collect this tax unless they acted as fiduciary agents also.

He explained in detail the operation of the law on corporations and individuals and which incomes were liable.

Speaking of the approaching Shriners' convention, Forrest Adair declared that the people of Atlanta should advertisement Atlanta had ever received. He cited the case of Los Angeles, which gained in population as a result of the visit of the Shriners.

Mr. Adair gave some startling figures on the number of reservations already made for the meeting.

Mr. Hamilton, of the Decatur Board of trade, gave some interesting figures to show the remarkable development of that town.

MINE FATALITIES IN 1913 SHOW INCREASE OVER 1912

Of 728,355 Underground Workers, 2,785 Perished, 3.82 in Every 1,000

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The year 1913 was more fatal for coal miners in the United States than the preceding twelve months. A report issued today by the bureau of mines showed an increase of fatalities of 425 over 1912, and twelve deaths for every working day in the year. In the army of 728,355 underground workers, 2,785 perished a fatality rate of 3.82 in every 1,000 men employed, as compared with 3.27 in 1912.

Six thousand more men were employed in 1913 and the increase in production was 30 million thirty million and forty million tons.

Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, director of the bureau, commenting on the record for the year, said:

"An examination of the statistics develops the fact that the increase in the use of mining machines in the coal mining operations during 1913 there were killed 425 more men than during 1912. This is an increase of 18 per cent in fatal accidents, with an increase of only about 8 per cent in coal production.

"We can find little comfort in the suggestion that this increase may in part be accounted for by the occurrence during 1913 of four large mine explosions. The statistics show a decrease in fatalities during 1913 from all the underground causes except mine fires and surface accidents.

"Some progress has been made, however, in the safety movement as shown by the statistics for the last eight years. In the four years ending December 31, 1909, the average death rate was 3.97 for each 1,000 men employed. In the last four years the rate was 3.48.

"It is unfortunate that the safety inquiries and investigations by the national government and states are so much depends, have lagged so far behind the needs of the industry and public demand. It is hoped that this situation may be remedied at an early date."

The states in which the greatest number of deaths occurred were: Pennsylvania, 1,227; West Virginia, 337; New Mexico, 272; Ohio, 165; Illinois, 164; Alabama, 124, and Colorado, 108.

PROPERTY RIGHTS OF EX-SLAVES DISCUSSED

Brother of Former Slave Seeks Title to Land in Tennessee

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—From a little farm owned by John Jones, a former slave, in Shelby county, Tennessee, there has arisen a controversy the question of whether ex-slaves are entitled to inherit from their brothers and sisters who likewise were in servitude.

The supreme court of Tennessee has held that ex-slaves have no inheritable blood. Once this decision became half brought the case to the supreme court, seeking a reversal.

W. H. Harrison, attorney for Will Jones, today filed a brief of its arguments, and the contest probably will be argued tomorrow.

"This is not a question of social rights between the colored and the white race, but the question involved in this case is a question of civil rights," stated Harrison in his brief. "White citizens of the state of Tennessee have been able to inherit collaterally under section 1846 of the personal property, the first act being passed by the legislature of our state in 1796 and ever since the rights of persons of color not ex-slaves have been allowed to inherit collaterally the same as the white.

Continuing, the brief asserts: "Now, for the court of last resort of our own state to hold this poor unfortunate race with a mark that he was an ex-slave, could have no property rights. Inheritable blood is inheritable blood, is in absolute violation of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, and the civil rights bill passed in aid thereof."

MOBILE SERGEANT IS REWARDED BY WILSON

(By Associated Press.)

MOBILE, Ala., March 1.—The heroism of Sergeant H. H. Mitchell, chief of the hospital corps of the Fort Morgan artillery garrison, who led the rescue work at the Mobile and Ohio train wreck in which several soldiers were killed at Buckatunna, Miss., last October, has been rewarded by the government with a certificate of merit from the president, carrying an increase in pay and a bronze medal.

Beasley, though himself injured, worked for eight hours rescuing the injured from the wreckage. The railroad presented him with a purse of $250. Beasley is a native of North Carolina.

WEST MADE THE USUAL ERROR OF NEW SENATORS

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senator West introduced three private claim bills yesterday, and in addressing the vice president, who was presiding, he fell into an error common to and committed by most new senators. The salutation was "Mr. Chairman," when it should have been "Mr. President." The faux pas occasioned a smile in the galleries and on the floor.

Young Girl Is Held for Police of Washington On Charge of Larceny

MRS. GERTRUDE MANCHA.

Mrs. Gertrude Mancha, the young girl, who was arested at the request of the Washington, D. C., police authorities on the charge of grand larceny, was given a preliminary trial Saturday morning before United States Commissioner Colquitt Carter and was ordered held under $500 bond until the officers from Washington come for her. She was unable to make bond and will probably spend the next few days in the Tower.

She wept in court when brought before the commissioner and made a half hysterical defense of herself. Her mother, Mrs. Adams, who was present wept also.

Mrs. Mancha, who was Miss Gertrude Griffith before her marriage, says she is not quite seventeen years old. The notices sent out from Washington offering a reward for her arrest, state that she is 20 years old and that she left Washington on the night of September 4, 1913, in company with a man named Clarence Keefer, aged 24 years. She had, says the notice, in her possession $975, part of which she is charged with stealing. Mrs. Mancha's attorney, L. W. James, said she would prefer counter charges against Mrs. Lillian J. Thomas, of Washington, who is prosecuting her for the theft of the money.

RARE CHANCE TO SECURE UP-TO-DATE AUTOMOBILE

Three Splendid Touring Cars Are Within Easy Reach of Every Person

To what extent the automobile has contributed to the pleasure of life is a much-discussed question, but the consensus of opinion is that no invention during the last century has added more to the sum total of human pleasure than the automobile. Its benefits are numberless, and so keen has become the desire to possess a "benzine buggy" that it is said many people purchase an automobile on a push-cart income.

Three splendid tour-cars, two of the Studebaker make and one of the Paige-Brunswick manufacture, are going to be awarded on April 11th, at the close of the Easter Gift Campaign, The Atlanta Journal. These handsome awards are not only perfect examples of the automobile maker's workmanship, but are as reliable as they are beautiful. With keen, racy lines, perfect engines and splendid appearance.

These cars will be awarded as prizes of merit for consistent and determined effort put forth during the campaign, which has but four short weeks to run, and are being eagerly sought, as well as they should be for no price offers more real pleasure and delight to a man than a perfect and handsome automobile. These prizes are open to everyone, and each candidate entered, by so doing, will have an equal opportunity for success.

The preliminary work having been completed, from this time on and during the four weeks remaining before the finish of the competition, the real, energetic endeavor that spells success will be put forth. There is still time for any person who desires to enter to do so and win, but attention should be paid to this most important detail at once.

The list of awards offered is so large and of such a liberal number, that the opportunities offered for success are endless, and a candidate will not realize how easy it is to succeed until he or she tries and finds that the work is easy and the desire of people who admire a worker is to help.

JIM CANTRELL GIVEN LONGER TIME TO LIVE

Governor Slaton Extends Condemned Man's Respite Pending Brother's Appeal

Governor Slaton has extended the respite of Jim Cantrell two weeks more, to Jim Cantrell, of Hall county. The original respite expired March 27, but the extension carries it until April 10.

The additional time allowed by the governor was due to the fact that the supreme court will not be able to pass on the appeal of Bart Cantrell before March 27.

Bart Cantrell and Mrs. Sylvie Hawkins were convicted as accessories in the murder of the Hawkins woman's husband. Cantrell was sentencer to be hanged and Mrs. Hawkins was given a life sentence in the penitentiary, which she is now serving. Jim Cantrell was convicted as the principal in the murder and sentenced by Fay-Egan Company.

At the request of the court officials of Hall county Governor Slaton respited Jim Cantrell until his brother's appeal could be decided by the supreme court.

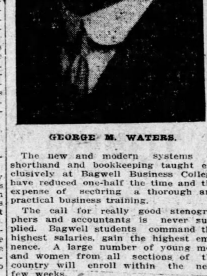
GEORGE WATERS, BAGWELL GRADUATE, GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY EMPLOYERS

Masters Shorthand and Bookkeeping in Five Months—The Perfect Satisfaction Which Mr. Waters Gives is Due Largely to the Excellent Training Received in Business College, Say His Employers.



GEORGE M. WATERS.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 10, 1914.

Prof. J. O. Bagwell, City.

Dear Sir: Mr. George M. Waters, a graduate from your college, has held a position with us as stenographer for the past two years, and his work has been satisfactory in every way. He has the responsibility of keeping two separate sets of books, with stenographic work from the president, secretary and treasurer and medical superintendent of the Atlanta Sanitarium. We highly recommend Chartier Shorthand for the rapidity it affords our stenographer and also for the easeof acquirement in transcribing his notes.

The records in our bookkeeping department are kept with perfect satisfaction, and we believe the credit is largely due your college for the excellent training which Mr. Waters received.

Assuring you of our high regards, we are, Sincerely yours,

THE ATLANTA SANITARIUM,
L. L. Andrews, M. D., Medical Superintendent.

Bagwell Business College has justly won the reputation of equipping its students as winners—it gets them right and helps them all the way. Its graduates are not ordinary, competent clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers. Their business sense has been developed, so they not only do their routine work well, but are ready to recognize and seize the chances to make a lasting business success that comes to every earnest worker.

This is clearly demonstrated by the success of young Mr. Waters, whose cut appears in this article, together with a letter from his employers, showing that he has had the right kind of training.
